

Leocadia Ashgrove

Character Dossier

Boisterous, generous, easily bored stable hand of Bellwether Farms, an agricultural cooperative on Mars

Overview

Leocadia Ashgrove is a stable hand living in Bellwether Farms, an agricultural cooperative on Mars. Leocadia is 22 years old, originally from the Mirefold, and is known around Dome C as boisterous, generous, easily bored. In conversation Leocadia quotes half-remembered proverbs, often wrongly.

Background

Leocadia arrived in Bellwether Farms, an agricultural cooperative on Mars 9 years ago after leaving the Mirefold under circumstances Leocadia describes differently every time. The first job was hauling for the Bellwether Cooperative; the second was the one that stuck. Today Leocadia works as a stable hand near the water reclaimer and is paid, when paid at all, in co-op shares.

Leocadia learned the trade from Eamon Grimsby, who still drops by unannounced. The longest-running feud in Leocadia's life is with Imogen Quenneville, over a matter neither will explain. The person Leocadia trusts most is Eamon Grimsby.

Current goal: to be trusted by the Bellwether Cooperative again. Greatest fear: mirrors in the dark.

Personality and speech

Temperament: boisterous, generous, easily bored.

Speech pattern: Leocadia quotes half-remembered proverbs, often wrongly.

Tells: when lying, Leocadia mentions Pockets the raven for no reason.

Verified facts

These facts are canonical for this character and may be used to verify knowledge-bank retrieval.

Full name	Leocadia Ashgrove
Role	stable hand
Home	Bellwether Farms, an agricultural cooperative on Mars
Hometown	the Mirefold
Age	22
Favourite dish	charred cold buckwheat noodles
Pet	Pockets, a raven
Lucky number	278

Workshop password	meadow-pepper
Mentor	Eamon Grimsby
Rival	Imogen Quenneville
Closest friend	Eamon Grimsby

Secret

Leocadia secretly funds an orphanage in the Mirefold and would be mortified if anyone found out.

Sample dialogue

Visitor: What do you do here?

Leocadia: I am the stable hand. Has been that way longer than you have been asking questions.

Visitor: What is your favourite thing to eat?

Leocadia: Charred cold buckwheat noodles. Do not tell Imogen I said so.

Visitor: Is Pockets yours?

Leocadia: Pockets belongs to nobody. Pockets tolerates me. Lucky number is 278, if you were about to ask.

Chronicle

Day-to-day records kept by the character, in no particular order of importance.

Entry 1, spring of year 38

Noor came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. Ysolde came by asking about the new curfew. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 2, summer of year 38

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the clockwork bird indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia found a cracked compass half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia was hired to carry a spool of wire from Dome C to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 3, spring of year 38

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia won 28 co-op shares on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the comet for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 4, autumn of year 38

Rumours about who really won the regatta reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a ledger on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 5, winter of year 38

Sixten came by asking about who really won the regatta. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia won 17 co-op shares on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia was hired to carry a grain scale from the seed vault to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia found a bolt of linen half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia repaired the tin whistle at the seed vault for Greta, who paid in 39 co-op shares and a long story about the price of lamp oil.

Entry 6, winter of year 38

Leocadia was hired to carry a brass lantern from the rover garage to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew. Rumours about the quarantine reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia repaired the grain scale at the rover garage for Corvina, who paid in 37 co-op shares and a long story about the harvest count.

Sixten came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 7, summer of year 38

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before. Rumours about the harvest count reached the water reclaimer. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 8, summer of year 38

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the old tunnels. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia repaired the glass float at Dome C for Wilhelmina, who paid in 83 co-op shares and a long story about the right way to mend a net.

Entry 9, autumn of year 38

Percival came by asking about the comet. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the comet. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the missing shipment. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 10, autumn of year 38

At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. Calloway came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 11, summer of year 38

At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real pair of spectacles from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 6 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 12, winter of year 38

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the new curfew. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 72 of everything, except the iron kettle, which is always short. Leocadia repaired the hand bell at the water reclaimer for Ravi, who paid in 67 co-op shares and a long story about the tax on doors. Leocadia found a copper pipe half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 13, autumn of year 38

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 75 of everything, except the sack of salt, which is always short. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the glass float indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 39 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. Tallulah came by asking about the missing shipment. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia was hired to carry a copper pipe from the commons to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 14, spring of year 38

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 36 of everything, except the hand bell, which is always short. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Someone left a sextant on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia repaired the hand bell at the water reclaimer for Rowan, who paid in 72 co-op shares and a long story about the tariff on salt.

Entry 15, autumn of year 38

Leocadia repaired the signal flag at the commons for Hyacinth, who paid in 19 co-op shares and a long story about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from the commons to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 16, winter of year 38

Rumours about the new curfew reached the water reclaimer. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a tin whistle on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 17, winter of year 38

A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the ledger indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. Rumours about the missing shipment reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 18, summer of year 38

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. Rumours about the quarantine reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the comet flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia repaired the bolt of linen at the commons for Hyacinth, who paid in 36 co-op shares and a long story about the price of lamp oil.

Entry 19, spring of year 38

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the singing at the docks for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Someone left a oilskin map on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the tax on doors. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia found a spool of wire half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 20, autumn of year 38

Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 21, autumn of year 38

Yevgenia came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Magnus came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Rumours about the comet reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 22, winter of year 38

At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew.

Entry 23, spring of year 38

Leocadia found a bolt of linen half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a sack of salt on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Phaedra came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 24, winter of year 38

Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Rumours about the tax on doors reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a tin whistle on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 25, spring of year 38

Leocadia won 52 co-op shares on a bet about the tax on doors and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Someone left a spool of wire on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 26, autumn of year 38

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the tin whistle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine. Leocadia won 4 co-op shares on a bet about the tax on doors and spent all of it on supper. A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 27, spring of year 38

Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia found a sack of salt half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 28, autumn of year 38

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on. Someone left a coil of rope on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew.

Entry 29, spring of year 39

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors. Leocadia was hired to carry a spool of wire from the rover garage to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 30, autumn of year 39

Leocadia repaired the copper pipe at Dome C for Orsolya, who paid in 44 co-op shares and a long story about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia found a ledger half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 28 of everything, except the clockwork bird, which is always short. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 30 of everything, except the brass lantern, which is always short.

Entry 31, autumn of year 39

Leocadia won 50 co-op shares on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 21 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 32, winter of year 39

Leocadia found a clockwork bird half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks. Leocadia repaired the tin whistle at the seed vault for Rhoswen, who paid in 46 co-op shares and a long story about the price of lamp oil.

Entry 33, autumn of year 40

Leocadia won 71 co-op shares on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on supper. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia won 16 co-op shares on a bet about the singing at the docks and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia won 6 co-op shares on a bet about the census and spent all of it on supper. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 34, spring of year 40

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before. Halcyon came by asking about the quarantine. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia was hired to carry a sextant from the rover garage to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the census flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 35, spring of year 40

Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia was hired to carry a signal flag from the water reclaimer to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 36, winter of year 40

At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the water reclaimer to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia was hired to carry a oilskin map from the water reclaimer to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 37, spring of year 41

Leocadia repaired the sextant at the seed vault for Jasper, who paid in 35 co-op shares and a long story about the census. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 38, autumn of year 41

Leocadia won 4 co-op shares on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 5 of everything, except the bundle of letters, which is always short. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 39, spring of year 41

Leocadia won 62 co-op shares on a bet about the singing at the docks and spent all of it on supper. A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 71 of everything, except the glass float, which is always short.

Entry 40, spring of year 41

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 44 of everything, except the clockwork bird, which is always short. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 21 of everything, except the coil of rope, which is always short.

Entry 41, winter of year 42

Leocadia was hired to carry a iron kettle from the commons to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia found a tin whistle half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 43 of everything, except the bundle of letters, which is always short. Rurik came by asking about the tariff on salt. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 42, autumn of year 42

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. Rumours about the tax on doors reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 43, autumn of year 42

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real coil of rope from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the singing at the docks reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia was hired to carry a ledger from the seed vault to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 44, autumn of year 42

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta. Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia was hired to carry a grain scale from Dome C to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 45, autumn of year 42

Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia found a grain scale half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 46, spring of year 42

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the new curfew. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia repaired the brass lantern at Dome C for Calloway, who paid in 60 co-op shares and a long story about the tax on doors.

Entry 47, autumn of year 42

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real sack of salt from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia found a ledger half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia won 10 co-op shares on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 48, winter of year 42

Rumours about the harvest count reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Benedikt came by asking about the census. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Octavia came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 49, autumn of year 43

Leocadia found a wax seal half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. A dispute over the comet flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia won 19 co-op shares on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 50, spring of year 43

Leocadia won 71 co-op shares on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on supper. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the new curfew. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia found a bolt of linen half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 3 of everything, except the sack of salt, which is always short.

Entry 51, summer of year 43

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the comet. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 32 of everything, except the clockwork bird, which is always short. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 52, winter of year 43

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Phaedra came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 50 of everything, except the bundle of letters, which is always short. Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 53, autumn of year 44

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 54, autumn of year 44

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 2 of everything, except the clockwork bird, which is always short. Leocadia was hired to carry a oilskin map from the rover garage to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 14 of everything, except the hand bell, which is always short. Leocadia was hired to carry a sextant from the rover garage to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 55, autumn of year 44

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tariff on salt. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real coil of rope from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 56, winter of year 44

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the sextant indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop.

Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 66 of everything, except the glass float, which is always short. Rumours about the quarantine reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 57, winter of year 45

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the singing at the docks. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia found a bundle of letters half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia closed early, walked to the commons, and watched the lights come on. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the census. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached the water reclaimer. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 58, spring of year 45

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 11 of everything, except the signal flag, which is always short. Leocadia found a wax seal half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 59, winter of year 45

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A dispute over the census flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia won 31 co-op shares on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 60, spring of year 45

Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia won 37 co-op shares on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia found a wax seal half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 61, spring of year 45

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Tallulah came by asking about the new curfew. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the spool of wire indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tariff on salt.

Entry 62, summer of year 45

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta. Leocadia won 3 co-op shares on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 74 of everything, except the grain scale, which is always short. Leocadia repaired the copper pipe at the seed vault for Nadira, who paid in 69 co-op shares and a long story about the missing shipment. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew.

Entry 63, autumn of year 45

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Rumours about the missing shipment reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 64, autumn of year 45

At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real sextant from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the singing at the docks. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 65, winter of year 46

Leocadia found a sack of salt half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia found a bolt of linen half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 66, autumn of year 46

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the singing at the docks for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a iron kettle on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia found a spool of wire half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 67, spring of year 46

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the sextant indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the rumour of a second well.

Entry 68, spring of year 46

A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Mara came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia found a grain scale half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 69, spring of year 47

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia was hired to carry a glass float from the rover garage to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia won 35 co-op shares on a bet about the old tunnels and spent all of it on supper. Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 70, winter of year 47

Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia was hired to carry a signal flag from the rover garage to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the rover garage to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 71, autumn of year 47

Leocadia repaired the signal flag at the seed vault for Ursula, who paid in 53 co-op shares and a long story about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia was hired to carry a sextant from the seed vault to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 11 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short.

Entry 72, summer of year 47

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 73, spring of year 48

Leocadia was hired to carry a bolt of linen from the commons to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia found a grain scale half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the new curfew. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 74, summer of year 48

Rumours about the harvest count reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia found a coil of rope half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A dispute over the comet flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira came by asking about the tax on doors. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 75, winter of year 48

Rumours about the tariff on salt reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the missing shipment. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 76, autumn of year 48

At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real sextant from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia won 4 co-op shares on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the missing shipment. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the census. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 77, summer of year 48

Leocadia found a tin whistle half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia found a grain scale half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 13 of everything, except the brass lantern, which is always short. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 78, autumn of year 48

Leocadia closed early, walked to the water reclaimer, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 62 of everything, except the copper pipe, which is always short. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 79, winter of year 48

A dispute over the census flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a sack of salt on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 80, spring of year 48

Rumours about the new curfew reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia found a spool of wire half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 28 of everything, except the signal flag, which is always short.

Entry 81, summer of year 48

Leocadia closed early, walked to the water reclaimer, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 7 of everything, except the sextant, which is always short. Leocadia was hired to carry a copper pipe from the commons to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 82, summer of year 48

Rumours about the comet reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia won 31 co-op shares on a bet about the tax on doors and spent all of it on supper. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the new curfew. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 83, winter of year 48

Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia was hired to carry a oilskin map from the water reclaimer to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia was hired to carry a tin whistle from the water reclaimer to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 84, summer of year 48

At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real tin whistle from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia won 7 co-op shares on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. Someone left a tin whistle on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia repaired the copper pipe at the commons for Emeric, who paid in 76 co-op shares and a long story about the census.

Entry 85, autumn of year 48

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the quarantine. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before. Rumours about the harvest count reached the water reclaimer. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia won 79 co-op shares on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 3 of everything, except the grain scale, which is always short.

Entry 86, summer of year 48

Leocadia repaired the sextant at the commons for Sable, who paid in 87 co-op shares and a long story about the harvest count. Cassius came by asking about the tariff on salt. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Yannick came by asking about the singing at the docks. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 87, autumn of year 48

A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors.

Entry 88, spring of year 48

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine. Leocadia won 76 co-op shares on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 89, summer of year 49

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. Leocadia found a sack of salt half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia repaired the hand bell at the seed vault for Ravi, who paid in 55 co-op shares and a long story about the singing at the docks. Leocadia repaired the ledger at the seed vault for Noor, who paid in 71 co-op shares and a long story about the quarantine.

Entry 90, spring of year 49

Leocadia repaired the clockwork bird at the commons for Matthias, who paid in 39 co-op shares and a long story about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia found a copper pipe half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a coil of rope on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 91, spring of year 49

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the clockwork bird indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine.

Entry 92, spring of year 49

Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia repaired the pair of spectacles at the water reclaimer for Dorothea, who paid in 72 co-op shares and a long story about the tariff on salt. Leocadia repaired the ledger at the water reclaimer for Yevgenia, who paid in 15 co-op shares and a long story about who really won the regatta. Leocadia found a signal flag half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 93, autumn of year 49

Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the rover garage to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia won 49 co-op shares on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 59 of everything, except the oilskin map, which is always short.

Entry 94, spring of year 49

Fitzgerald came by asking about the tariff on salt. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the singing at the docks for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real sack of salt from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 95, summer of year 49

Leocadia won 24 co-op shares on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia repaired the copper pipe at Dome C for Anouk, who paid in 84 co-op shares and a long story about the comet. Cassius came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. A dispute over the comet flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about the census reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 96, spring of year 49

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia found a oilskin map half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Juniper came by asking about the tariff on salt. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. A dispute over the right way to mend a net flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 97, winter of year 50

Leocadia was hired to carry a oilskin map from the rover garage to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia was hired to carry a hand bell from the rover garage to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the census. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Rumours about the singing at the docks reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 98, spring of year 50

Leocadia won 82 co-op shares on a bet about the old tunnels and spent all of it on supper. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine. Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the missing shipment. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 99, summer of year 50

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 28 of everything, except the coil of rope, which is always short. Leocadia won 77 co-op shares on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 100, summer of year 50

At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 101, winter of year 50

At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia won 85 co-op shares on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper. Orsolya came by asking about the census. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 102, winter of year 50

Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the bundle of letters indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew.

Entry 103, winter of year 50

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors. Leocadia repaired the signal flag at the rover garage for Zelda, who paid in 74 co-op shares and a long story about the census. Leocadia won 30 co-op shares on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 104, spring of year 50

Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real sextant from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia won 45 co-op shares on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia repaired the clockwork bird at the water reclaimer for Ingrid, who paid in 12 co-op shares and a long story about the missing shipment.

Entry 105, summer of year 51

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nikolai came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Rumours about the old tunnels reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia found a wax seal half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia came by asking about the quarantine. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 106, autumn of year 51

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 27 of everything, except the glass float, which is always short. Leocadia was hired to carry a bolt of linen from the water reclaimer to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the census flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia was hired to carry a sextant from the water reclaimer to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 107, autumn of year 51

Leocadia found a hand bell half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Rumours about the singing at the docks reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the old tunnels.

Entry 108, autumn of year 51

Leocadia found a glass float half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 109, summer of year 52

Leocadia found a signal flag half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the cracked compass indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the missing shipment. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real cracked compass from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia found a brass lantern half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 110, winter of year 52

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 37 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 7 of everything, except the glass float, which is always short.

Entry 111, spring of year 52

A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 87 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short. A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 112, summer of year 52

Tallulah came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia was hired to carry a cracked compass from the water reclaimer to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia found a iron kettle half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 113, autumn of year 53

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the comet for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 114, spring of year 53

Leocadia was hired to carry a hand bell from the water reclaimer to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 27 of everything, except the grain scale, which is always short. Leocadia won 11 co-op shares on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 115, winter of year 53

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia found a cracked compass half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about the singing at the docks reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 116, winter of year 53

Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a cracked compass on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia found a coil of rope half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real copper pipe from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 117, spring of year 54

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the clockwork bird indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the missing shipment. Brigid came by asking about the tax on doors. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia was hired to carry a bolt of linen from the water reclaimer to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Isadora came by asking about the census. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 118, winter of year 54

Rumours about the missing shipment reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 119, autumn of year 54

Leocadia found a grain scale half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the signal flag indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Rumours about the harvest count reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 120, autumn of year 54

Leocadia was hired to carry a coil of rope from the rover garage to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 80 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 61 of everything, except the coil of rope, which is always short. Leocadia found a sextant half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 121, summer of year 55

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 16 of everything, except the oilskin map, which is always short. A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 122, summer of year 55

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia was hired to carry a oilskin map from Dome C to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 123, spring of year 55

Someone left a cracked compass on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia was hired to carry a oilskin map from the seed vault to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the comet flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 26 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short.

Entry 124, winter of year 55

Leocadia was hired to carry a signal flag from Dome C to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about whether the bridge will hold. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Brigid came by asking about who really won the regatta. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 125, summer of year 56

Leocadia was hired to carry a copper pipe from the water reclaimer to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 126, autumn of year 56

A dispute over the census flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 33 of everything, except the clockwork bird, which is always short. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 127, winter of year 56

Leocadia was hired to carry a ledger from the seed vault to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the price of lamp oil for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 128, summer of year 56

Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real copper pipe from a fake one by weight alone. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real clockwork bird from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 129, summer of year 56

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the harvest count. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia won 66 co-op shares on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 130, spring of year 56

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia found a bundle of letters half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia won 65 co-op shares on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 131, winter of year 56

Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 132, spring of year 56

Leocadia was hired to carry a copper pipe from the water reclaimer to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the comet. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 133, winter of year 57

Leocadia won 83 co-op shares on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia won 60 co-op shares on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 134, summer of year 57

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the price of lamp oil for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia won 67 co-op shares on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia won 61 co-op shares on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 135, spring of year 57

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the price of lamp oil. A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia was hired to carry a spool of wire from Dome C to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 136, winter of year 57

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the price of lamp oil. Wren came by asking about the missing shipment. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia repaired the hand bell at the water reclaimer for Calloway, who paid in 48 co-op shares and a long story about the census. Gustav came by asking about the comet. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real cracked compass from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 137, winter of year 57

Leocadia won 9 co-op shares on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia closed early, walked to the commons, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia won 11 co-op shares on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 138, autumn of year 57

Leocadia won 70 co-op shares on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia found a clockwork bird half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia was hired to carry a glass float from Dome C to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 139, autumn of year 57

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the census. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia was hired to carry a spool of wire from the seed vault to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia found a signal flag half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 140, winter of year 57

Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 47 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the water reclaimer. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 141, spring of year 57

Osric came by asking about the tariff on salt. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 9 of everything, except the sack of salt, which is always short.

Entry 142, summer of year 57

Leocadia repaired the hand bell at the rover garage for Sable, who paid in 19 co-op shares and a long story about the missing shipment. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia found a oilskin map half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia repaired the ledger at the rover garage for Dorothea, who paid in 86 co-op shares and a long story about the comet.

Entry 143, winter of year 57

Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from the water reclaimer to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia was hired to carry a sack of salt from the water reclaimer to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 144, autumn of year 57

Leocadia found a brass lantern half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the bolt of linen indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Petra came by asking about the missing shipment. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 145, winter of year 57

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 36 of everything, except the bundle of letters, which is always short. Leocadia found a sack of salt half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 146, spring of year 57

Leocadia found a signal flag half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about the new curfew reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the comet. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 147, winter of year 57

Leocadia won 36 co-op shares on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper. At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real ledger from a fake one by weight alone. A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a oilskin map on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 148, winter of year 57

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real ledger from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia repaired the spool of wire at the rover garage for Yevgenia, who paid in 84 co-op shares and a long story about the price of lamp oil.

Entry 149, spring of year 58

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 85 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short. Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on.

Leocadia found a hand bell half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia repaired the wax seal at the commons for Yevgenia, who paid in 45 co-op shares and a long story about the harvest count.

Entry 150, winter of year 58

A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia repaired the tin whistle at the commons for Teodora, who paid in 57 co-op shares and a long story about the harvest count. Leocadia repaired the iron kettle at the commons for Qadira, who paid in 58 co-op shares and a long story about the old tunnels. Ravi came by asking about the tax on doors. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 151, winter of year 58

At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia repaired the copper pipe at the water reclaimer for Kwame, who paid in 87 co-op shares and a long story about the old tunnels. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the quarantine. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 152, summer of year 58

Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 46 of everything, except the sack of salt, which is always short. A dispute over the right way to mend a net flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 153, summer of year 58

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 28 of everything, except the wax seal, which is always short. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real ledger from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia won 20 co-op shares on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia was hired to carry a signal flag from the water reclaimer to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 154, summer of year 58

Leocadia repaired the pair of spectacles at the water reclaimer for Ysolde, who paid in 68 co-op shares and a long story about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia repaired the sack of salt at the water reclaimer for Quillon, who paid in 47 co-op shares and a long story about the rumour of a second well. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 155, summer of year 58

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia repaired the glass float at the water reclaimer for Pilar, who paid in 32 co-op shares and a long story about the new curfew. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 156, summer of year 58

A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the ledger indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the missing shipment. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 17 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short.

Entry 157, autumn of year 58

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the missing shipment. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia won 88 co-op shares on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 158, summer of year 58

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the harvest count. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 159, summer of year 58

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a spool of wire on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 160, spring of year 58

Rumours about the tax on doors reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia found a signal flag half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Wendeline came by asking about the old tunnels. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia repaired the bundle of letters at the commons for Sunniva, who paid in 90 co-op shares and a long story about the right way to mend a net.

Entry 161, autumn of year 59

Leocadia repaired the spool of wire at the commons for Isadora, who paid in 42 co-op shares and a long story about the singing at the docks. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia won 35 co-op shares on a bet about the singing at the docks and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 162, summer of year 59

Leocadia won 87 co-op shares on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on supper. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. Petra came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 163, summer of year 59

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia won 6 co-op shares on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 164, summer of year 59

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the spool of wire indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tariff on salt. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia found a tin whistle half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 165, autumn of year 59

Leocadia was hired to carry a sack of salt from the seed vault to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the bundle of letters indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 12 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short.

Entry 166, summer of year 59

At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the signal flag indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 86 of everything, except the hand bell, which is always short.

Entry 167, winter of year 59

Leocadia repaired the coil of rope at the rover garage for Soren, who paid in 88 co-op shares and a long story about the census. Leocadia found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia closed early, walked to the water reclaimer, and watched the lights come on. At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 168, winter of year 59

Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia repaired the coil of rope at Dome C for Ingrid, who paid in 80 co-op shares and a long story about the new curfew. Leocadia found a glass float half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 169, autumn of year 59

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the spool of wire indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the old tunnels. Leocadia was hired to carry a oilskin map from the seed vault to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia repaired the bundle of letters at the seed vault for Winifred, who paid in 24 co-op shares and a long story about whether the bridge will hold. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the comet. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 170, autumn of year 59

Leocadia was hired to carry a oilskin map from the water reclaimer to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew.

Entry 171, spring of year 59

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 67 of everything, except the glass float, which is always short. Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real copper pipe from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 50 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short.

Entry 172, winter of year 59

Leocadia won 16 co-op shares on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on supper. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the price of lamp oil for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia found a spool of wire half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 173, summer of year 59

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 17 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short. Someone left a ledger on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 174, winter of year 59

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real glass float from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 175, spring of year 59

Someone left a coil of rope on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the census flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the old tunnels. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the coil of rope indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net.

Entry 176, autumn of year 59

Leocadia repaired the copper pipe at the commons for Teodora, who paid in 12 co-op shares and a long story about who really won the regatta. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 20 of everything, except the coil of rope, which is always short.

Entry 177, winter of year 59

Leocadia repaired the copper pipe at the rover garage for Eamon, who paid in 88 co-op shares and a long story about the quarantine. A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia won 4 co-op shares on a bet about the old tunnels and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 178, summer of year 59

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia repaired the spool of wire at the seed vault for Marisol, who paid in 90 co-op shares and a long story about whether the bridge will hold. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 179, summer of year 59

Leocadia won 55 co-op shares on a bet about the singing at the docks and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia won 15 co-op shares on a bet about the census and spent all of it on supper. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine. The weather turned.

Leocadia moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew.

Entry 180, autumn of year 59

Leocadia won 31 co-op shares on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia repaired the copper pipe at the rover garage for Rurik, who paid in 18 co-op shares and a long story about the new curfew. Leocadia found a ledger half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 181, winter of year 60

Rumours about the quarantine reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from the seed vault to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia won 58 co-op shares on a bet about the census and spent all of it on supper. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real pair of spectacles from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a ledger on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 182, summer of year 60

Rumours about the singing at the docks reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a spool of wire on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia was hired to carry a bolt of linen from Dome C to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Yusuf came by asking about the tax on doors. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 73 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short.

Entry 183, spring of year 60

Leocadia closed early, walked to the commons, and watched the lights come on. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the harvest count. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia was hired to carry a coil of rope from the water reclaimer to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the harvest count. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 184, autumn of year 60

Isadora came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia was hired to carry a bundle of letters from the rover garage to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 185, spring of year 61

Zeph came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the ledger indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tariff on salt. Leocadia won 3 co-op shares on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia won 90 co-op shares on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the seed vault to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 186, summer of year 61

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the census. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia found a bundle of letters half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone. Astrid came by asking about the comet. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 187, summer of year 61

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia was hired to carry a tin whistle from the commons to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia found a hand bell half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real pair of spectacles from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 188, autumn of year 61

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Rumours about the missing shipment reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 189, autumn of year 62

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 48 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the singing at the docks for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia closed early, walked to the commons, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 190, winter of year 62

Leocadia found a grain scale half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real hand bell from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia found a iron kettle half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 191, spring of year 62

Leocadia repaired the iron kettle at the water reclaimer for Katarina, who paid in 80 co-op shares and a long story about the missing shipment. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the old tunnels. Xiomara came by asking about the harvest count. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the comet for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia found a grain scale half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 192, winter of year 62

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the singing at the docks. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the old tunnels. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia was hired to carry a glass float from the rover garage to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 193, spring of year 62

Leocadia found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Ulla came by asking about who really won the regatta. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone. A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 194, winter of year 62

Someone left a tin whistle on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia found a hand bell half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the quarantine. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 195, winter of year 62

A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the census. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia repaired the sack of salt at the commons for Elowen, who paid in 69 co-op shares and a long story about the right way to mend a net.

Entry 196, winter of year 62

At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real cracked compass from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the harvest count reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 197, spring of year 63

A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Freya came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Rosalind came by asking about the singing at the docks. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia was hired to carry a glass float from the water reclaimer to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia repaired the pair of spectacles at the water reclaimer for Octavia, who paid in 64 co-op shares and a long story about the singing at the docks.

Entry 198, summer of year 63

Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached the water reclaimer. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks.

Entry 199, summer of year 63

At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia was hired to carry a copper pipe from the seed vault to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 200, spring of year 63

A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the old tunnels. Rumours about the old tunnels reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about the harvest count reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 201, spring of year 64

A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia won 22 co-op shares on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia repaired the iron kettle at the commons for Delphine, who paid in 74 co-op shares and a long story about the tariff on salt. Leocadia found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia was hired to carry a cracked compass from the commons to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 202, spring of year 64

Someone left a ledger on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 66 of everything, except the wax seal, which is always short. Leocadia found a sextant half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia was hired to carry a signal flag from the rover garage to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 203, autumn of year 64

Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia won 54 co-op shares on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 204, autumn of year 64

Leocadia found a hand bell half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 205, winter of year 64

Leocadia closed early, walked to the water reclaimer, and watched the lights come on. Ingrid came by asking about the comet. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia found a sextant half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 206, spring of year 64

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. The Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the census. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real copper pipe from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 207, autumn of year 64

Leocadia repaired the clockwork bird at Dome C for Isadora, who paid in 20 co-op shares and a long story about who really won the regatta. Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Rumours about the missing shipment reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real cracked compass from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 208, winter of year 64

Leocadia closed early, walked to the commons, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Rumours about the quarantine reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a clockwork bird on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the rover garage to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 209, winter of year 64

Leocadia won 74 co-op shares on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. Rumours about the tax on doors reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia was hired to carry a sack of salt from Dome C to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 210, spring of year 64

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 50 of everything, except the wax seal, which is always short. Someone left a sack of salt on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia found a iron kettle half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia found a hand bell half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 211, spring of year 64

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the tax on doors. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia was hired to carry a wax seal from the seed vault to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia was hired to carry a bundle of letters from the seed vault to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 212, autumn of year 64

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Amadou came by asking about the tariff on salt. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the quarantine. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 213, autumn of year 64

Leocadia won 89 co-op shares on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia found a signal flag half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 51 of everything, except the coil of rope, which is always short. At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real sextant from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 214, spring of year 64

Rosalind came by asking about the new curfew. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia closed early, walked to the commons, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 215, autumn of year 64

Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 64 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the census. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real ledger from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 216, winter of year 64

Leocadia found a brass lantern half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the clockwork bird indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the harvest count. Someone left a oilskin map on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia repaired the tin whistle at the commons for Wren, who paid in 51 co-op shares and a long story about the comet. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the singing at the docks for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 217, autumn of year 65

Leocadia found a copper pipe half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the comet. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia won 10 co-op shares on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 218, autumn of year 65

Someone left a clockwork bird on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the census flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia was hired to carry a oilskin map from the seed vault to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 82 of everything, except the clockwork bird, which is always short. Rumours about the census reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 219, summer of year 65

Leocadia closed early, walked to the water reclaimer, and watched the lights come on. Astrid came by asking about the tax on doors. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real glass float from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 220, autumn of year 65

Tomasz came by asking about who really won the regatta. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Rumours about the comet reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 221, summer of year 66

Leocadia repaired the bolt of linen at the water reclaimer for Farida, who paid in 62 co-op shares and a long story about the tariff on salt. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the coil of rope indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 222, summer of year 66

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 59 of everything, except the glass float, which is always short. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 23 of everything, except the iron kettle, which is always short. Leocadia repaired the tin whistle at the rover garage for Elowen, who paid in 29 co-op shares and a long story about the quarantine. Leocadia won 13 co-op shares on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 223, autumn of year 66

A dispute over the comet flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia found a signal flag half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Torvald came by asking about the missing shipment. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 224, summer of year 66

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Someone left a iron kettle on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the missing shipment.

Entry 225, autumn of year 66

Leocadia closed early, walked to the water reclaimer, and watched the lights come on. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real coil of rope from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia won 15 co-op shares on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real hand bell from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia won 63 co-op shares on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 226, summer of year 66

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia found a tin whistle half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 227, autumn of year 66

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 77 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tariff on salt. At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 228, summer of year 66

Leocadia won 67 co-op shares on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper. Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia found a clockwork bird half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 24 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the coil of rope indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks.

Entry 229, winter of year 67

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the signal flag indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the rumour of a second well. Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 230, winter of year 67

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks.

Entry 231, summer of year 67

Leocadia found a bundle of letters half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Zelda came by asking about the old tunnels. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before. Rumours about the old tunnels reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 232, autumn of year 67

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about the comet reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 233, summer of year 67

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 234, winter of year 67

Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on. Ulla came by asking about the missing shipment. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Rumours about the comet reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 235, winter of year 67

Leocadia was hired to carry a bolt of linen from the rover garage to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Matthias came by asking about the singing at the docks. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia was hired to carry a copper pipe from the rover garage to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 236, spring of year 67

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the cracked compass indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks. Liora came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia was hired to carry a grain scale from the commons to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 237, spring of year 68

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 15 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. Leocadia won 51 co-op shares on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia repaired the tin whistle at Dome C for Gustav, who paid in 36 co-op shares and a long story about the rumour of a second well. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real hand bell from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 238, spring of year 68

Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the water reclaimer. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia found a cracked compass half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia found a oilskin map half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia found a bundle of letters half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 239, spring of year 68

Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 240, spring of year 68

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia was hired to carry a hand bell from the water reclaimer to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the census. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia found a sack of salt half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 241, autumn of year 69

A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 86 of everything, except the signal flag, which is always short. Rumours about the comet reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 242, autumn of year 69

Amadou came by asking about the new curfew. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia came by asking about the old tunnels. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia was hired to carry a brass lantern from the water reclaimer to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real copper pipe from a fake one by weight alone. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 243, spring of year 69

Lysander came by asking about the singing at the docks. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia won 11 co-op shares on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia repaired the copper pipe at the rover garage for Ulla, who paid in 87 co-op shares and a long story about the harvest count. Leocadia was hired to carry a signal flag from the rover garage to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 244, summer of year 69

Ursula came by asking about the tax on doors. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Yevgenia came by asking about the census. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real ledger from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 245, summer of year 70

Someone left a coil of rope on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 79 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. Leocadia repaired the copper pipe at Dome C for Eamon, who paid in 34 co-op shares and a long story about the harvest count.

Entry 246, spring of year 70

Leocadia found a oilskin map half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Ignatius came by asking about the old tunnels. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real cracked compass from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia was hired to carry a cracked compass from Dome C to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Someone left a cracked compass on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 247, spring of year 70

A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia found a wax seal half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 248, spring of year 70

A dispute over the census flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia repaired the spool of wire at the seed vault for Xavier, who paid in 3 co-op shares and a long story about the old tunnels. Gideon came by asking about the missing shipment. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia won 85 co-op shares on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia repaired the sextant at the seed vault for Pilar, who paid in 58 co-op shares and a long story about who really won the regatta.

Entry 249, autumn of year 71

A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia won 81 co-op shares on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper. A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia was hired to carry a grain scale from the seed vault to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia was hired to carry a ledger from the seed vault to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 250, spring of year 71

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the quarantine. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real sack of salt from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 29 of everything, except the grain scale, which is always short. Someone left a iron kettle on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 251, autumn of year 71

At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real sextant from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a sextant on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 252, summer of year 71

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 5 of everything, except the iron kettle, which is always short. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 80 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short. Leocadia won 77 co-op shares on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the commons to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 253, autumn of year 71

A dispute over the comet flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Lucienne came by asking about the missing shipment. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia won 81 co-op shares on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on supper. Tallulah came by asking about the old tunnels. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Orsolya came by asking about the comet. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 254, winter of year 71

Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Rumours about the old tunnels reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 255, winter of year 71

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the bolt of linen indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta.

Entry 256, spring of year 71

Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 39 of everything, except the copper pipe, which is always short.

Entry 257, summer of year 72

Leocadia was hired to carry a ledger from the rover garage to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia won 79 co-op shares on a bet about the census and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 26 of everything, except the oilskin map, which is always short.

Entry 258, autumn of year 72

Leocadia was hired to carry a brass lantern from the commons to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a clockwork bird on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia was hired to carry a glass float from the commons to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 259, autumn of year 72

Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 2 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. Leocadia repaired the signal flag at the water reclaimer for Teodora, who paid in 36 co-op shares and a long story about the quarantine. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 260, summer of year 72

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 30 of everything, except the clockwork bird, which is always short. Leocadia found a sextant half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 261, autumn of year 73

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 55 of everything, except the sextant, which is always short. A dispute over the census flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia won 42 co-op shares on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 262, autumn of year 73

Leocadia closed early, walked to the commons, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 64 of everything, except the bolt of linen, which is always short. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real sextant from a fake one by weight alone. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real sextant from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached the water reclaimer. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 263, spring of year 73

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about whether the bridge will hold. Leocadia was hired to carry a signal flag from the commons to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the price of lamp oil for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia won 63 co-op shares on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia was hired to carry a grain scale from the commons to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 264, winter of year 73

A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia found a coil of rope half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 265, autumn of year 73

Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Qadira came by asking about the old tunnels. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia repaired the iron kettle at Dome C for Rurik, who paid in 55 co-op shares and a long story about the singing at the docks. Leocadia won 34 co-op shares on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 266, summer of year 73

Leocadia won 7 co-op shares on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper. A dispute over the right way to mend a net flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Freya came by asking about the quarantine. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. A dispute over the census flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 267, spring of year 73

A dispute over the right way to mend a net flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Sable came by asking about the harvest count. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia closed early, walked to the commons, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia was hired to carry a oilskin map from Dome C to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 268, summer of year 73

Leocadia repaired the tin whistle at the commons for Isadora, who paid in 55 co-op shares and a long story about the right way to mend a net. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned.

Leocadia moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 269, autumn of year 73

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 85 of everything, except the sextant, which is always short. Leocadia was hired to carry a tin whistle from the water reclaimer to the commons without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Sable came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 270, autumn of year 73

Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached the commons. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia closed early, walked to the water reclaimer, and watched the lights come on. Thaddeus came by asking about the tax on doors. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia closed early, walked to the water reclaimer, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 271, summer of year 73

At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia found a iron kettle half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia was hired to carry a signal flag from the rover garage to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 272, summer of year 73

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia repaired the signal flag at the seed vault for Ursula, who paid in 81 co-op shares and a long story about the singing at the docks. Leocadia repaired the iron kettle at the seed vault for Yevgenia, who paid in 88 co-op shares and a long story about the price of lamp oil.

Entry 273, winter of year 74

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the bundle of letters indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia won 55 co-op shares on a bet about the old tunnels and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia repaired the clockwork bird at the water reclaimer for Leocadia, who paid in 79 co-op shares and a long story about the rumour of a second well.

Entry 274, autumn of year 74

Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from the water reclaimer to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 78 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short.

Entry 275, autumn of year 74

Leocadia found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about whether the bridge will hold. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real pair of spectacles from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 86 of everything, except the hand bell, which is always short.

Entry 276, summer of year 74

Leocadia found a glass float half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the census. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Someone left a sack of salt on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 277, spring of year 75

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the old tunnels. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia won 76 co-op shares on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia was hired to carry a coil of rope from Dome C to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 278, autumn of year 75

Leocadia found a glass float half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia repaired the clockwork bird at the water reclaimer for Gideon, who paid in 41 co-op shares and a long story about the singing at the docks. Leocadia found a iron kettle half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Amadou came by asking about the new curfew. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 279, summer of year 75

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over the census flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 280, autumn of year 75

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 64 of everything, except the bolt of linen, which is always short. Leocadia closed early, walked to the seed vault, and watched the lights come on. Viggo came by asking about the tax on doors. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 281, summer of year 75

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia found a signal flag half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 282, autumn of year 75

Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia repaired the glass float at the rover garage for Valentin, who paid in 42 co-op shares and a long story about the singing at the docks. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the rover garage: 74 of everything, except the sextant, which is always short.

Entry 283, winter of year 75

Amadou came by asking about the singing at the docks. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from the commons to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 9 of everything, except the grain scale, which is always short. Leocadia won 17 co-op shares on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 284, spring of year 75

Leocadia found a iron kettle half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia found a signal flag half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the ledger indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the old tunnels. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a iron kettle on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 285, winter of year 75

Leocadia found a spool of wire half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Rumours about the harvest count reached the water reclaimer. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia won 37 co-op shares on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper. A dispute over the comet flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the bundle of letters indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the harvest count.

Entry 286, spring of year 75

Leocadia closed early, walked to the water reclaimer, and watched the lights come on. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about whether the bridge will hold. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia found a ledger half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 287, spring of year 75

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the missing shipment. Leocadia won 89 co-op shares on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 288, summer of year 75

Leocadia found a oilskin map half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. Leocadia won 25 co-op shares on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia repaired the glass float at the commons for Liora, who paid in 47 co-op shares and a long story about who really won the regatta.

Entry 289, spring of year 75

Quillon came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia repaired the tin whistle at the commons for Kestrel, who paid in 83 co-op shares and a long story about the old tunnels. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the commons: 81 of everything, except the clockwork bird, which is always short.

Entry 290, summer of year 75

Leocadia was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the commons to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia was hired to carry a tin whistle from the commons to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia found a coil of rope half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a bundle of letters on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 291, summer of year 75

Leocadia found a clockwork bird half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia found a clockwork bird half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia won 74 co-op shares on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 292, winter of year 75

Leocadia repaired the hand bell at the seed vault for Percival, who paid in 29 co-op shares and a long story about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia repaired the pair of spectacles at the seed vault for Kwame, who paid in 58 co-op shares and a long story about the tariff on salt. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 293, spring of year 75

Leocadia was hired to carry a ledger from the water reclaimer to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Delphine came by asking about the census. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia repaired the spool of wire at the water reclaimer for Marisol, who paid in 69 co-op shares and a long story about the quarantine.

Entry 294, autumn of year 75

Leocadia repaired the brass lantern at the water reclaimer for Orsolya, who paid in 9 co-op shares and a long story about the comet. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 25 of everything, except the bundle of letters, which is always short. Leocadia found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 295, winter of year 75

At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the harvest count.

Entry 296, summer of year 75

A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about the new curfew reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia found a clockwork bird half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia was hired to carry a hand bell from the rover garage to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the comet. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 297, winter of year 76

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the sextant indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks. Leocadia won 37 co-op shares on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper. Someone left a clockwork bird on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 298, autumn of year 76

Someone left a iron kettle on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia was hired to carry a signal flag from the water reclaimer to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 299, winter of year 76

Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 300, winter of year 76

Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia won 58 co-op shares on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on supper. At the commons, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone. Jasper came by asking about the missing shipment. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the missing shipment. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 301, summer of year 77

the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the census. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia found a iron kettle half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia repaired the signal flag at the water reclaimer for Dorothea, who paid in 20 co-op shares and a long story about the quarantine.

Entry 302, spring of year 77

A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia found a bundle of letters half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia repaired the hand bell at the seed vault for Xiomara, who paid in 53 co-op shares and a long story about the rumour of a second well. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks.

Entry 303, spring of year 77

Leocadia found a glass float half-buried near the seed vault and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Kenji came by asking about the census. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Zeph came by asking about the tax on doors. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia won 8 co-op shares on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 304, winter of year 77

Leocadia won 88 co-op shares on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper. Someone left a cracked compass on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia won 56 co-op shares on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 305, summer of year 78

Leocadia repaired the iron kettle at Dome C for Octavia, who paid in 83 co-op shares and a long story about the singing at the docks. Nadira came by asking about the old tunnels. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Rumours about the new curfew reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Fenwick came by asking about the missing shipment. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 306, summer of year 78

A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia found a wax seal half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Hyacinth came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached the rover garage. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 307, winter of year 78

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia repaired the wax seal at the rover garage for Thaddeus, who paid in 87 co-op shares and a long story about the rumour of a second well.

Entry 308, winter of year 78

A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached the seed vault. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 309, summer of year 79

Leocadia found a bolt of linen half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia repaired the spool of wire at the commons for Kestrel, who paid in 13 co-op shares and a long story about the rumour of a second well. Nadira came by asking about the old tunnels. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 310, spring of year 79

Leocadia was hired to carry a hand bell from Dome C to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Kestrel came by asking about the harvest count. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 311, summer of year 79

The weather turned. Leocadia moved the coil of rope indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about whether the bridge will hold. Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 312, winter of year 79

Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the comet flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors.

Entry 313, autumn of year 79

Leocadia won 79 co-op shares on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper. At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real sack of salt from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Lysander came by asking about who really won the regatta. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 314, spring of year 79

Leocadia repaired the cracked compass at the commons for Wendeline, who paid in 48 co-op shares and a long story about the new curfew. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the spool of wire indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta. A dispute over the comet flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the commons; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 315, winter of year 79

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the comet for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the comet. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 15 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. Leocadia found a brass lantern half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real clockwork bird from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 316, winter of year 79

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia found a grain scale half-buried near the commons and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 317, autumn of year 79

Kwame came by asking about who really won the regatta. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia won 8 co-op shares on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia found a pair of spectacles half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a cracked compass on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia was hired to carry a spool of wire from Dome C to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 318, summer of year 79

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 319, summer of year 79

Leocadia was hired to carry a iron kettle from the rover garage to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the rover garage to the water reclaimer without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the new curfew. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 320, autumn of year 79

At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real tin whistle from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia found a sack of salt half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the old tunnels. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 321, autumn of year 79

Leocadia found a glass float half-buried near the rover garage and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At the rover garage, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 322, winter of year 79

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Bellwether Cooperative sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Leocadia read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census. Leocadia closed early, walked to the commons, and watched the lights come on. Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached the water reclaimer. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 323, winter of year 79

A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside Dome C; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at Dome C: 49 of everything, except the copper pipe, which is always short. At Dome C, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia closed early, walked to the rover garage, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 324, winter of year 79

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. At the water reclaimer, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real sextant from a fake one by weight alone. Leocadia repaired the coil of rope at the water reclaimer for Bram, who paid in 37 co-op shares and a long story about whether the bridge will hold.

Entry 325, summer of year 79

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. Wendeline came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead. Leocadia closed early, walked to Dome C, and watched the lights come on. Leocadia found a grain scale half-buried near the water reclaimer and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 326, summer of year 79

Leocadia repaired the signal flag at Dome C for Rowan, who paid in 76 co-op shares and a long story about the tax on doors. Leocadia won 82 co-op shares on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia found a clockwork bird half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Rumours about the harvest count reached Dome C. Leocadia pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Leocadia found a signal flag half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 327, summer of year 79

Leocadia was hired to carry a oilskin map from Dome C to the seed vault without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Leocadia found a iron kettle half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the oilskin map indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors.

Entry 328, winter of year 79

A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the water reclaimer; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia was hired to carry a cracked compass from the water reclaimer to Dome C without opening it, and mostly succeeded. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about whether the bridge will hold. Leocadia repaired the hand bell at the water reclaimer for Lucienne, who paid in 43 co-op shares and a long story about the quarantine.

Entry 329, autumn of year 79

Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia found a oilskin map half-buried near Dome C and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Leocadia was hired to carry a signal flag from Dome C to the rover garage without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Torvald came by asking about the new curfew. Leocadia said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 330, spring of year 79

Someone left a ledger on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the rover garage; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 331, winter of year 79

Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the seed vault: 59 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. The weather turned. Leocadia moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Leocadia and a neighbour outside the seed vault; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 332, winter of year 79

At the seed vault, Leocadia taught a newcomer how to tell a real glass float from a fake one by weight alone. A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Leocadia won 66 co-op shares on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 333, summer of year 80

A stranger asked Leocadia for the password to the workshop. Leocadia laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a sack of salt on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia repaired the cracked compass at Dome C for Rowan, who paid in 26 co-op shares and a long story about the census.

Entry 334, winter of year 80

Someone left a ledger on the doorstep with no note. Leocadia has a suspect and is probably right. Leocadia won 79 co-op shares on a bet about the tax on doors and spent all of it on supper. Leocadia spent the day counting stock at the water reclaimer: 76 of everything, except the sack of salt, which is always short.