

Nadira Merriwether

Character Dossier

Fiercely protective of newcomers glassblower of the Dust Road caravan routes

Overview

Nadira Merriwether is a glassblower living in the Dust Road caravan routes. Nadira is 36 years old, originally from Verity Falls, and is known around Wayrest Springs as fiercely protective of newcomers. In conversation Nadira laughs at their own jokes a beat too early.

Background

Nadira arrived in the Dust Road caravan routes 22 years ago after leaving Verity Falls under circumstances Nadira describes differently every time. The first job was hauling for the Caravaners' Compact; the second was the one that stuck. Today Nadira works as a glassblower near the Salt Flats and is paid, when paid at all, in trade tokens.

Nadira learned the trade from Gideon Norwood, who still drops by unannounced. The longest-running feud in Nadira's life is with Kwame Norwood, over a matter neither will explain. The person Nadira trusts most is Gideon Norwood.

Current goal: to earn the title of master before turning fifty. Greatest fear: a knock at the door after dark.

Personality and speech

Temperament: fiercely protective of newcomers.

Speech pattern: Nadira laughs at their own jokes a beat too early.

Tells: when lying, Nadira mentions Yolk the hawk for no reason.

Verified facts

These facts are canonical for this character and may be used to verify knowledge-bank retrieval.

Full name	Nadira Merriwether
Role	glassblower
Home	the Dust Road caravan routes
Hometown	Verity Falls
Age	36
Favourite dish	festival roast root vegetables
Pet	Yolk, a hawk
Lucky number	158

Workshop password	slate-harbor
Mentor	Gideon Norwood
Rival	Kwame Norwood
Closest friend	Gideon Norwood

Secret

Nadira writes poetry under the pen name 'The Slate' and has a small, devoted readership.

Sample dialogue

Visitor: What do you do here?

Nadira: I am the glassblower. Has been that way longer than you have been asking questions.

Visitor: What is your favourite thing to eat?

Nadira: Festival roast root vegetables. Do not tell Kwame I said so.

Visitor: Is Yolk yours?

Nadira: Yolk belongs to nobody. Yolk tolerates me. Lucky number is 158, if you were about to ask.

Chronicle

Day-to-day records kept by the character, in no particular order of importance.

Entry 1, spring of year 5

A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Nadira won 50 trade tokens on a bet about the singing at the docks and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 2, winter of year 5

Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the quarantine. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. Nadira repaired the hand bell at Three Crows junction for Halcyon, who paid in 42 trade tokens and a long story about the singing at the docks. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 3, spring of year 5

A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 17 of everything, except the coil of rope, which is always short. Nadira won 32 trade tokens on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper. Nadira repaired the clockwork bird at Emberfall Pass for Ravi, who paid in 86 trade tokens and a long story about the price of lamp oil. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 4, winter of year 5

Nadira was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from Emberfall Pass to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira won 44 trade tokens on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper. Nadira repaired the brass lantern at Emberfall Pass for Ysolde, who paid in 15 trade tokens and a long story about the right way to mend a net.

Entry 5, spring of year 5

Nadira repaired the bundle of letters at the Salt Flats for Rosalind, who paid in 21 trade tokens and a long story about the old tunnels. The weather turned. Nadira moved the bolt of linen indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 6, spring of year 5

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 17 of everything, except the iron kettle, which is always short. The weather turned. Nadira moved the sack of salt indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Nadira moved the cracked compass indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew.

Entry 7, spring of year 5

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira won 32 trade tokens on a bet about the old tunnels and spent all of it on supper. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 8, spring of year 5

Nadira was hired to carry a ledger from the Cracked Cistern to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real clockwork bird from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira was hired to carry a oilskin map from the Cracked Cistern to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira won 11 trade tokens on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 9, summer of year 6

A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira was hired to carry a spool of wire from Emberfall Pass to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Matthias came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 10, winter of year 6

Rumours about the singing at the docks reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira won 58 trade tokens on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper. Corvina came by asking about the comet. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira won 26 trade tokens on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 11, winter of year 6

The weather turned. Nadira moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Nadira won 27 trade tokens on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 12, winter of year 6

A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Hollis came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Rumours about the harvest count reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 13, summer of year 7

Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached the Salt Flats. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 14, spring of year 7

A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real tin whistle from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the comet reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about the quarantine reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 15, spring of year 7

A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Nadira moved the bundle of letters indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the price of lamp oil. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 16, summer of year 7

At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira found a copper pipe half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the price of lamp oil for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira found a sextant half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 17, summer of year 7

The weather turned. Nadira moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 75 of everything, except the signal flag, which is always short. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 21 of everything, except the copper pipe, which is always short.

Entry 18, spring of year 7

A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Nadira moved the signal flag indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census.

Entry 19, spring of year 7

Nadira won 53 trade tokens on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on supper. Yannick came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a clockwork bird on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira found a signal flag half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 20, summer of year 7

Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. Nadira was hired to carry a sack of salt from the Salt Flats to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 21, spring of year 8

Caspian came by asking about the old tunnels. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Amadou came by asking about who really won the regatta. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 22, summer of year 8

A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira was hired to carry a glass float from Three Crows junction to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira found a grain scale half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira found a tin whistle half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 23, spring of year 8

At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira was hired to carry a copper pipe from Three Crows junction to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. The weather turned. Nadira moved the sack of salt indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census. Wendeline came by asking about the singing at the docks. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 24, summer of year 8

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira was hired to carry a ledger from Three Crows junction to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira won 19 trade tokens on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 25, spring of year 8

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. Tiberius came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 46 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. Nadira was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the Salt Flats to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 26, spring of year 8

Rumours about the old tunnels reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Ursula came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira won 38 trade tokens on a bet about the tax on doors and spent all of it on supper. The weather turned. Nadira moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the price of lamp oil. Nadira repaired the pair of spectacles at Three Crows junction for Rosalind, who paid in 76 trade tokens and a long story about the new curfew.

Entry 27, summer of year 8

Someone left a iron kettle on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Someone left a bundle of letters on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira repaired the glass float at Emberfall Pass for Soren, who paid in 60 trade tokens and a long story about the tariff on salt.

Entry 28, spring of year 8

At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real glass float from a fake one by weight alone. Lucienne came by asking about the singing at the docks. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Valentin came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Nadira moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 29, winter of year 8

Hollis came by asking about the new curfew. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira found a coil of rope half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before. At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 30, spring of year 8

Nadira was hired to carry a signal flag from Three Crows junction to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the census. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 45 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short.

Entry 31, summer of year 8

Nadira found a grain scale half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the comet for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 32, autumn of year 8

The weather turned. Nadira moved the sextant indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Nadira moved the spool of wire indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira found a brass lantern half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 33, autumn of year 9

Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. Nadira won 19 trade tokens on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the old tunnels. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira repaired the coil of rope at the Salt Flats for Leocadia, who paid in 19 trade tokens and a long story about the missing shipment. A dispute over the right way to mend a net flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 34, autumn of year 9

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Nadira moved the spool of wire indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 35, spring of year 9

Nadira found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira was hired to carry a spool of wire from the Cracked Cistern to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira won 58 trade tokens on a bet about the tax on doors and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 36, summer of year 9

Rumours about the census reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nkechi came by asking about the quarantine. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 37, spring of year 10

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 71 of everything, except the glass float, which is always short. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 38, winter of year 10

Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Nadira moved the oilskin map indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 39, spring of year 10

Nadira found a sack of salt half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Viggo came by asking about the missing shipment. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 40, spring of year 10

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from the Salt Flats to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 41, autumn of year 10

Nadira was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from Three Crows junction to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded. At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the old tunnels. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 42, winter of year 10

Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Ysolde came by asking about the old tunnels. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 43, summer of year 10

Nadira was hired to carry a ledger from the Cracked Cistern to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Rumours about the missing shipment reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 44, autumn of year 10

Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira was hired to carry a wax seal from Three Crows junction to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 45, autumn of year 10

The weather turned. Nadira moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew. Noor came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira was hired to carry a copper pipe from Wayrest Springs to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Nadira moved the sack of salt indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the old tunnels.

Entry 46, summer of year 10

At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone. The weather turned. Nadira moved the coil of rope indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 50 of everything, except the iron kettle, which is always short. Nadira was hired to carry a sextant from the Cracked Cistern to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 47, winter of year 10

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 45 of everything, except the bolt of linen, which is always short. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the census flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 48, autumn of year 10

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the quarantine. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Gustav came by asking about the new curfew. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira repaired the sack of salt at the Salt Flats for Sable, who paid in 38 trade tokens and a long story about the rumour of a second well. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira found a coil of rope half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 49, summer of year 11

A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira was hired to carry a clockwork bird from Emberfall Pass to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira was hired to carry a grain scale from Emberfall Pass to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 50, autumn of year 11

Someone left a clockwork bird on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira found a ledger half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 51, spring of year 11

Zubair came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira won 10 trade tokens on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on supper. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the census. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 52, summer of year 11

A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 53, summer of year 11

Nadira found a spool of wire half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a coil of rope on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 54, autumn of year 11

A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira found a sack of salt half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira found a ledger half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the comet. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira won 23 trade tokens on a bet about the old tunnels and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 55, autumn of year 11

Tiberius came by asking about the singing at the docks. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira was hired to carry a copper pipe from Three Crows junction to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop.

Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 8 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 56, spring of year 11

Yusuf came by asking about the missing shipment. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Mara came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira found a cracked compass half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 57, spring of year 11

A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the singing at the docks. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira repaired the brass lantern at Wayrest Springs for Kenji, who paid in 24 trade tokens and a long story about the singing at the docks. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Nadira moved the bolt of linen indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet.

Entry 58, spring of year 11

The weather turned. Nadira moved the bolt of linen indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta. Greta came by asking about the missing shipment. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Xavier came by asking about the quarantine. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 59, summer of year 11

Nadira was hired to carry a sack of salt from Emberfall Pass to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira found a sack of salt half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real copper pipe from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 60, spring of year 11

Rumours about the missing shipment reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before. Vesna came by asking about the old tunnels. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 61, winter of year 12

Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the census. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 36 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short.

Entry 62, autumn of year 12

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the price of lamp oil for an hour and parted better friends than before. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 63, autumn of year 12

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira won 17 trade tokens on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper. Nadira won 21 trade tokens on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira was hired to carry a cracked compass from Three Crows junction to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 64, winter of year 12

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 72 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. Nadira found a iron kettle half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Amadou came by asking about the tariff on salt. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira won 34 trade tokens on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 65, spring of year 13

Marisol came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 28 of everything, except the brass lantern, which is always short. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the quarantine. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 66, winter of year 13

Emeric came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira won 5 trade tokens on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on supper. Nadira won 32 trade tokens on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 89 of everything, except the signal flag, which is always short.

Entry 67, winter of year 13

Nadira repaired the brass lantern at the Cracked Cistern for Dashiell, who paid in 40 trade tokens and a long story about the census. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira found a bundle of letters half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real cracked compass from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 68, autumn of year 13

At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 5 of everything, except the brass lantern, which is always short. Nadira found a spool of wire half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 69, autumn of year 14

Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Nadira found a cracked compass half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 28 of everything, except the wax seal, which is always short.

Entry 70, winter of year 14

Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 65 of everything, except the copper pipe, which is always short.

Entry 71, winter of year 14

At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real coil of rope from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the tax on doors reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 72, winter of year 14

At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 55 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. Nadira repaired the sack of salt at Wayrest Springs for Liora, who paid in 9 trade tokens and a long story about the comet.

Entry 73, spring of year 14

The weather turned. Nadira moved the ledger indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira repaired the copper pipe at Three Crows junction for Ignatius, who paid in 64 trade tokens and a long story about the rumour of a second well. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 74, autumn of year 14

Rumours about the old tunnels reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira found a bolt of linen half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira won 73 trade tokens on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 75, autumn of year 14

Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 76, winter of year 14

Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. Nadira repaired the bolt of linen at Wayrest Springs for Qadira, who paid in 42 trade tokens and a long story about the census. Nadira found a glass float half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 77, spring of year 14

Someone left a sack of salt on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Nadira moved the cracked compass indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 54 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. Nadira won 74 trade tokens on a bet about the census and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 78, autumn of year 14

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira won 7 trade tokens on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 79, winter of year 14

The weather turned. Nadira moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors. Nadira was hired to carry a copper pipe from Wayrest Springs to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira was hired to carry a coil of rope from Wayrest Springs to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 80, summer of year 14

Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Nadira won 79 trade tokens on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper. Rumours about the comet reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 67 of everything, except the iron kettle, which is always short. The weather turned. Nadira moved the ledger indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet.

Entry 81, autumn of year 14

Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira found a tin whistle half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Corvina came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Nadira moved the oilskin map indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the old tunnels.

Entry 82, winter of year 14

The weather turned. Nadira moved the sack of salt indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the old tunnels. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. The weather turned. Nadira moved the spool of wire indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew. Nadira repaired the cracked compass at Three Crows junction for Leocadia, who paid in 77 trade tokens and a long story about the rumour of a second well.

Entry 83, winter of year 14

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. Jorah came by asking about the tariff on salt. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Lucienne came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the singing at the docks for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 84, spring of year 14

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Rumours about the comet reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira was hired to carry a wax seal from Emberfall Pass to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 85, autumn of year 15

Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 23 of everything, except the hand bell, which is always short. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real hand bell from a fake one by weight alone. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 18 of everything, except the glass float, which is always short. Nadira won 3 trade tokens on a bet about the old tunnels and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 86, summer of year 15

At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a bundle of letters on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira was hired to carry a sextant from the Cracked Cistern to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 87, spring of year 15

A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira won 77 trade tokens on a bet about the census and spent all of it on supper. Rumours about the tax on doors reached the Salt Flats. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira repaired the bundle of letters at the Salt Flats for Pilar, who paid in 8 trade tokens and a long story about the quarantine.

Entry 88, summer of year 15

Nadira won 60 trade tokens on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 86 of everything, except the grain scale, which is always short. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Mara came by asking about the new curfew. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 89, summer of year 16

Nadira won 34 trade tokens on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the singing at the docks reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 90, autumn of year 16

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. Rhoswen came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 91, spring of year 16

The weather turned. Nadira moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census. Nadira was hired to carry a brass lantern from the Cracked Cistern to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 92, summer of year 16

The weather turned. Nadira moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the rumour of a second well. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 57 of everything, except the coil of rope, which is always short.

Entry 93, winter of year 16

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira repaired the tin whistle at the Cracked Cistern for Leocadia, who paid in 87 trade tokens and a long story about the old tunnels. Nadira was hired to carry a cracked compass from the Cracked Cistern to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira repaired the signal flag at the Cracked Cistern for Hollis, who paid in 14 trade tokens and a long story about the missing shipment.

Entry 94, winter of year 16

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 40 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short. Nadira repaired the spool of wire at Three Crows junction for Delphine, who paid in 48 trade tokens and a long story about who really won the regatta. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 57 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. Someone left a sextant on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 95, autumn of year 16

Nadira found a cracked compass half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real pair of spectacles from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the old tunnels reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira found a iron kettle half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 96, summer of year 16

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 10 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. Rumours about the harvest count reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira won 13 trade tokens on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 97, spring of year 16

Nadira won 45 trade tokens on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper. A dispute over the comet flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Nadira moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about whether the bridge will hold.

Entry 98, winter of year 16

Rumours about the tariff on salt reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. The weather turned. Nadira moved the oilskin map indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the rumour of a second well. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone. The weather turned. Nadira moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta.

Entry 99, summer of year 16

At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone. The weather turned. Nadira moved the clockwork bird indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the price of lamp oil. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. Nadira won 83 trade tokens on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 100, winter of year 16

Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. The weather turned. Nadira moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine. Nadira won 64 trade tokens on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper. Nadira repaired the wax seal at the Salt Flats for Xanthe, who paid in 83 trade tokens and a long story about whether the bridge will hold. Farida came by asking about the missing shipment. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 101, summer of year 16

Dorothea came by asking about who really won the regatta. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Nadira moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the missing shipment. At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real copper pipe from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 102, summer of year 16

Qadira came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Quillon came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 103, summer of year 16

Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira repaired the sextant at the Salt Flats for Benedikt, who paid in 77 trade tokens and a long story about the harvest count. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. Nadira won 6 trade tokens on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the quarantine. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 104, spring of year 16

At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira won 9 trade tokens on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper. A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 105, winter of year 17

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the census. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Nadira moved the bolt of linen indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks. Nadira was hired to carry a bundle of letters from Wayrest Springs to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Rumours about the new curfew reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 106, autumn of year 17

Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the old tunnels. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the singing at the docks. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 107, winter of year 17

A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A dispute over the comet flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 14 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 108, winter of year 17

At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the comet. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 109, spring of year 17

Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 19 of everything, except the wax seal, which is always short. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 64 of everything, except the brass lantern, which is always short. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira found a wax seal half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 110, summer of year 17

The weather turned. Nadira moved the sextant indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census. Nadira found a oilskin map half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Isadora came by asking about the quarantine. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 111, spring of year 17

Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 49 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira won 66 trade tokens on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 112, spring of year 17

Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 71 of everything, except the wax seal, which is always short. The weather turned. Nadira moved the tin whistle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tax on doors. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Calloway came by asking about the comet. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 113, winter of year 17

The weather turned. Nadira moved the oilskin map indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the census. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 114, summer of year 17

The weather turned. Nadira moved the sextant indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the old tunnels. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 6 of everything, except the sextant, which is always short.

Entry 115, summer of year 17

At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real sack of salt from a fake one by weight alone. At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira repaired the oilskin map at Wayrest Springs for Sixten, who paid in 50 trade tokens and a long story about the census.

Entry 116, spring of year 17

Nadira was hired to carry a sack of salt from Wayrest Springs to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira was hired to carry a sack of salt from Wayrest Springs to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 117, autumn of year 17

Nadira found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Rumours about the comet reached the Salt Flats. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira found a signal flag half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 90 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. A dispute over the right way to mend a net flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 118, summer of year 17

The weather turned. Nadira moved the ledger indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the missing shipment. Rumours about the singing at the docks reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real tin whistle from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira won 75 trade tokens on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 119, spring of year 17

The weather turned. Nadira moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the harvest count. Nadira was hired to carry a cracked compass from Three Crows junction to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded. The weather turned. Nadira moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors. Someone left a spool of wire on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Rumours about the singing at the docks reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 120, autumn of year 17

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira found a hand bell half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira found a bundle of letters half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 121, autumn of year 18

Nadira was hired to carry a grain scale from Wayrest Springs to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira was hired to carry a tin whistle from Wayrest Springs to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Hollis came by asking about the comet. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira found a iron kettle half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 122, winter of year 18

Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 123, winter of year 18

Nadira was hired to carry a bolt of linen from Emberfall Pass to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira won 23 trade tokens on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper. Nadira won 33 trade tokens on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Calloway came by asking about the new curfew. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 124, autumn of year 18

Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. Nadira won 8 trade tokens on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 61 of everything, except the coil of rope, which is always short. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 125, summer of year 19

A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 31 of everything, except the hand bell, which is always short. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a oilskin map on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 126, winter of year 19

Halcyon came by asking about the old tunnels. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tax on doors. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the singing at the docks. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Nadira moved the signal flag indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet.

Entry 127, winter of year 19

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 10 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 86 of everything, except the sack of salt, which is always short.

Entry 128, autumn of year 19

Seraphine came by asking about the quarantine. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Nadira found a copper pipe half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Nadira won 57 trade tokens on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. Hollis came by asking about the missing shipment. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 129, summer of year 20

Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. Vesna came by asking about the comet. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the quarantine. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached the Salt Flats. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 130, winter of year 20

Nadira was hired to carry a copper pipe from Emberfall Pass to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the census. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the price of lamp oil for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira won 46 trade tokens on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 131, summer of year 20

Nadira was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from Wayrest Springs to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira found a glass float half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Tallulah came by asking about the quarantine. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 132, winter of year 20

The weather turned. Nadira moved the coil of rope indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. Nadira found a glass float half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira repaired the signal flag at the Salt Flats for Ravi, who paid in 29 trade tokens and a long story about the old tunnels.

Entry 133, winter of year 20

Nadira repaired the bundle of letters at Wayrest Springs for Liora, who paid in 67 trade tokens and a long story about the rumour of a second well. Nadira won 29 trade tokens on a bet about the census and spent all of it on supper. At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira found a coil of rope half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 134, spring of year 20

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Nadira moved the sack of salt indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about whether the bridge will hold. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 135, winter of year 20

Percival came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 136, winter of year 20

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real hand bell from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 137, autumn of year 21

Nadira won 25 trade tokens on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real coil of rope from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira repaired the copper pipe at Emberfall Pass for Olwen, who paid in 47 trade tokens and a long story about who really won the regatta.

Entry 138, summer of year 21

Nadira won 34 trade tokens on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. The weather turned. Nadira moved the cracked compass indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira found a coil of rope half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 139, summer of year 21

Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Nadira found a sextant half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a ledger on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 140, winter of year 21

Nadira won 69 trade tokens on a bet about the old tunnels and spent all of it on supper. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 141, winter of year 22

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Rumours about the missing shipment reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the comet. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 142, winter of year 22

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the comet for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira repaired the bolt of linen at Three Crows junction for Rhoswen, who paid in 21 trade tokens and a long story about the comet. Nadira found a oilskin map half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 143, autumn of year 22

Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 85 of everything, except the oilskin map, which is always short. Nadira was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from the Salt Flats to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 144, spring of year 22

A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira won 23 trade tokens on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 145, winter of year 22

Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira won 79 trade tokens on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 84 of everything, except the signal flag, which is always short.

Entry 146, spring of year 22

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the singing at the docks. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Nadira moved the tin whistle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the price of lamp oil. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 23 of everything, except the glass float, which is always short. Percival came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 147, winter of year 22

A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the quarantine. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 148, winter of year 22

Nadira found a sextant half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 11 of everything, except the sack of salt, which is always short. The weather turned. Nadira moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira won 30 trade tokens on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 149, spring of year 23

Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 86 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 49 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short. A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 150, summer of year 23

Rumours about the missing shipment reached the Salt Flats. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira found a sack of salt half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira won 18 trade tokens on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 151, spring of year 23

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real sack of salt from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira repaired the copper pipe at the Cracked Cistern for Isadora, who paid in 74 trade tokens and a long story about the census.

Entry 152, winter of year 23

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the comet. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 153, summer of year 24

Nadira repaired the ledger at the Cracked Cistern for Bram, who paid in 13 trade tokens and a long story about the price of lamp oil. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 154, summer of year 24

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira won 33 trade tokens on a bet about the singing at the docks and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 155, spring of year 24

Nadira won 20 trade tokens on a bet about the old tunnels and spent all of it on supper. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 156, winter of year 24

The weather turned. Nadira moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. Nadira was hired to carry a signal flag from Emberfall Pass to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 157, winter of year 25

Baptiste came by asking about the new curfew. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Fitzgerald came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira found a iron kettle half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 158, summer of year 25

A dispute over the comet flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 67 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short. Nadira won 87 trade tokens on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 159, autumn of year 25

Viggo came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 160, spring of year 25

Someone left a clockwork bird on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira won 63 trade tokens on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on supper. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 40 of everything, except the grain scale, which is always short. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 71 of everything, except the clockwork bird, which is always short.

Entry 161, summer of year 26

Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Rumours about the old tunnels reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the harvest count. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Nadira moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta.

Entry 162, spring of year 26

Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira repaired the hand bell at Wayrest Springs for Imogen, who paid in 50 trade tokens and a long story about the rumour of a second well. Nadira was hired to carry a cracked compass from Wayrest Springs to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 163, summer of year 26

At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real glass float from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Nadira won 21 trade tokens on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 164, winter of year 26

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Rumours about the missing shipment reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira repaired the hand bell at Wayrest Springs for Kenji, who paid in 5 trade tokens and a long story about the right way to mend a net. Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 165, spring of year 27

A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Someone left a spool of wire on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira was hired to carry a brass lantern from the Cracked Cistern to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira was hired to carry a iron kettle from the Cracked Cistern to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 166, winter of year 27

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A dispute over the right way to mend a net flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira repaired the wax seal at Three Crows junction for Valentin, who paid in 48 trade tokens and a long story about the quarantine.

Entry 167, autumn of year 27

Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Vesna came by asking about the tax on doors. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tax on doors. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 168, autumn of year 27

Nadira found a pair of spectacles half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real ledger from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira was hired to carry a oilskin map from Wayrest Springs to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 169, summer of year 28

Nadira found a spool of wire half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira won 13 trade tokens on a bet about the census and spent all of it on supper. Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 170, winter of year 28

Ulla came by asking about the singing at the docks. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Nadira moved the cracked compass indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the rumour of a second well. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 70 of everything, except the wax seal, which is always short. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the missing shipment. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 171, spring of year 28

Nadira repaired the bolt of linen at the Salt Flats for Bram, who paid in 80 trade tokens and a long story about the tariff on salt. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone. The weather turned. Nadira moved the tin whistle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census.

Entry 172, autumn of year 28

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tax on doors. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira repaired the ledger at Emberfall Pass for Olwen, who paid in 49 trade tokens and a long story about the quarantine. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Farida came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira was hired to carry a hand bell from Emberfall Pass to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 173, spring of year 29

Nadira was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from Wayrest Springs to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the comet. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 174, winter of year 29

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 21 of everything, except the sack of salt, which is always short. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 175, spring of year 29

Nadira won 50 trade tokens on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper. Nadira repaired the oilskin map at Wayrest Springs for Percival, who paid in 12 trade tokens and a long story about the singing at the docks. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the comet. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 72 of everything, except the grain scale, which is always short. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the missing shipment. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 176, autumn of year 29

Yannick came by asking about the old tunnels. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 41 of everything, except the grain scale, which is always short. Zubair came by asking about the old tunnels. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Nadira moved the glass float indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the harvest count.

Entry 177, spring of year 29

Rumours about the census reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira won 40 trade tokens on a bet about the census and spent all of it on supper. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira found a spool of wire half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 178, autumn of year 29

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira found a glass float half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira was hired to carry a sextant from Wayrest Springs to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 179, spring of year 29

At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real ledger from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira won 76 trade tokens on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 180, summer of year 29

Nadira won 33 trade tokens on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the new curfew. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Petra came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Nadira was hired to carry a coil of rope from the Cracked Cistern to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 181, autumn of year 29

Nadira repaired the glass float at Wayrest Springs for Valentin, who paid in 35 trade tokens and a long story about the rumour of a second well. Nadira was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from Wayrest Springs to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira won 72 trade tokens on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 182, winter of year 29

Nadira was hired to carry a iron kettle from Wayrest Springs to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the missing shipment. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 183, summer of year 29

Nadira found a copper pipe half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira was hired to carry a tin whistle from the Cracked Cistern to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 184, spring of year 29

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tax on doors. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the singing at the docks for an hour and parted better friends than before. The weather turned. Nadira moved the ledger indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the rumour of a second well.

Entry 185, winter of year 30

The weather turned. Nadira moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the harvest count. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 32 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. The weather turned. Nadira moved the sextant indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine.

Entry 186, winter of year 30

At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real hand bell from a fake one by weight alone. Corvina came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 187, autumn of year 30

Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Nadira repaired the pair of spectacles at Three Crows junction for Torvald, who paid in 90 trade tokens and a long story about the right way to mend a net. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 188, spring of year 30

Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 189, summer of year 31

Rumours about the singing at the docks reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Nadira moved the clockwork bird indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors.

Entry 190, spring of year 31

Nadira repaired the glass float at Three Crows junction for Ignatius, who paid in 8 trade tokens and a long story about the new curfew. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. Katarina came by asking about the singing at the docks. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 191, autumn of year 31

Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a ledger on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 192, autumn of year 31

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Nadira moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 193, autumn of year 32

Astrid came by asking about the singing at the docks. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A dispute over the comet flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira was hired to carry a grain scale from Wayrest Springs to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 15 of everything, except the sack of salt, which is always short.

Entry 194, summer of year 32

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the harvest count. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. The weather turned. Nadira moved the coil of rope indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tariff on salt. Nadira found a hand bell half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 195, spring of year 32

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira won 78 trade tokens on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper. Nadira repaired the oilskin map at Three Crows junction for Octavia, who paid in 6 trade tokens and a long story about the missing shipment.

Entry 196, summer of year 32

A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Nadira moved the cracked compass indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census.

Entry 197, spring of year 32

At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real clockwork bird from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 75 of everything, except the oilskin map, which is always short. The weather turned. Nadira moved the ledger indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew. A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 198, winter of year 32

Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. Rumours about the census reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 199, winter of year 32

Nadira won 85 trade tokens on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 200, spring of year 32

Nadira won 6 trade tokens on a bet about the tax on doors and spent all of it on supper. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the missing shipment. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira was hired to carry a bolt of linen from Three Crows junction to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 201, summer of year 32

Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the quarantine. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 90 of everything, except the clockwork bird, which is always short. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 202, winter of year 32

Someone left a bundle of letters on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Nadira moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 50 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short.

Entry 203, spring of year 32

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Nadira moved the sextant indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the old tunnels. Nadira repaired the wax seal at Emberfall Pass for Jorah, who paid in 67 trade tokens and a long story about whether the bridge will hold. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real coil of rope from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 204, autumn of year 32

Rumours about the harvest count reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the census flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 205, autumn of year 33

Nadira was hired to carry a grain scale from the Salt Flats to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 76 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real ledger from a fake one by weight alone. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the old tunnels. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 206, summer of year 33

Nadira repaired the clockwork bird at the Cracked Cistern for Delphine, who paid in 54 trade tokens and a long story about the comet. Nadira found a hand bell half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira found a brass lantern half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 207, summer of year 33

Nadira was hired to carry a copper pipe from Three Crows junction to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Dashiell came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 208, winter of year 33

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 66 of everything, except the brass lantern, which is always short. Nadira found a hand bell half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 209, autumn of year 34

A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Umberto came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 51 of everything, except the wax seal, which is always short.

Entry 210, summer of year 34

Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 13 of everything, except the hand bell, which is always short. The weather turned. Nadira moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the old tunnels. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 211, spring of year 34

Nadira won 34 trade tokens on a bet about the singing at the docks and spent all of it on supper. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 82 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short.

Entry 212, spring of year 34

A dispute over the comet flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira repaired the glass float at Wayrest Springs for Liora, who paid in 47 trade tokens and a long story about the new curfew. Fitzgerald came by asking about the singing at the docks. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real glass float from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 213, winter of year 34

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 60 of everything, except the oilskin map, which is always short. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Nadira moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real copper pipe from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 2 of everything, except the copper pipe, which is always short.

Entry 214, winter of year 34

A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. Isadora came by asking about the new curfew. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 215, spring of year 34

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Nadira moved the ledger indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the price of lamp oil for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira was hired to carry a coil of rope from the Salt Flats to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 216, autumn of year 34

The weather turned. Nadira moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta. Nadira won 45 trade tokens on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper. Someone left a oilskin map on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Elowen came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 217, autumn of year 35

Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira was hired to carry a clockwork bird from Emberfall Pass to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 218, winter of year 35

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 37 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short. Nadira repaired the spool of wire at Wayrest Springs for Juniper, who paid in 85 trade tokens and a long story about the harvest count.

Entry 219, summer of year 35

Nadira found a bundle of letters half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. The weather turned. Nadira moved the coil of rope indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 220, winter of year 35

Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 47 of everything, except the oilskin map, which is always short. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the comet. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the price of lamp oil for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. Nadira found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 221, autumn of year 35

Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 67 of everything, except the copper pipe, which is always short. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 222, spring of year 35

At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone. Yevgenia came by asking about the quarantine. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira found a wax seal half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 223, autumn of year 35

Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Nadira was hired to carry a grain scale from the Salt Flats to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira was hired to carry a iron kettle from the Salt Flats to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 224, summer of year 35

Nadira found a sack of salt half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira won 39 trade tokens on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on supper. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 225, summer of year 35

Nadira was hired to carry a brass lantern from Three Crows junction to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira found a grain scale half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 226, summer of year 35

Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Nadira moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net.

Entry 227, summer of year 35

A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a ledger on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 228, autumn of year 35

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the comet. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the harvest count. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira found a signal flag half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 229, winter of year 36

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nkechi came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 52 of everything, except the sextant, which is always short. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the old tunnels. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 230, winter of year 36

A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira repaired the iron kettle at Wayrest Springs for Nadira, who paid in 42 trade tokens and a long story about the tariff on salt. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 231, winter of year 36

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 23 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real hand bell from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 232, autumn of year 36

The weather turned. Nadira moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira repaired the bundle of letters at the Salt Flats for Kwame, who paid in 15 trade tokens and a long story about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira found a sack of salt half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 233, autumn of year 36

The weather turned. Nadira moved the bolt of linen indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tariff on salt. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 234, spring of year 36

Someone left a oilskin map on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached the Salt Flats. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. Greta came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 235, spring of year 36

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira found a oilskin map half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from the Salt Flats to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 236, autumn of year 36

Nadira won 67 trade tokens on a bet about the tax on doors and spent all of it on supper. Nadira repaired the sack of salt at Wayrest Springs for Rowan, who paid in 48 trade tokens and a long story about the tax on doors. Orsolya came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. Nadira won 89 trade tokens on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 237, winter of year 36

Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 86 of everything, except the sack of salt, which is always short. Freya came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 238, spring of year 36

Nadira won 15 trade tokens on a bet about the old tunnels and spent all of it on supper. Nadira was hired to carry a bolt of linen from the Cracked Cistern to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira was hired to carry a spool of wire from the Cracked Cistern to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the old tunnels. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 239, autumn of year 36

Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Nadira moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the missing shipment. Wendeline came by asking about the old tunnels. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 45 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short.

Entry 240, summer of year 36

Nadira found a glass float half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira was hired to carry a ledger from the Cracked Cistern to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 241, summer of year 36

Nadira found a signal flag half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before. At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real ledger from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 242, winter of year 36

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira was hired to carry a bolt of linen from the Cracked Cistern to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 243, autumn of year 36

Nadira was hired to carry a grain scale from Three Crows junction to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 52 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short. A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 244, winter of year 36

Nadira found a ledger half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. Nadira won 2 trade tokens on a bet about the old tunnels and spent all of it on supper. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Nadira moved the sextant indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew.

Entry 245, autumn of year 36

Nadira repaired the pair of spectacles at Wayrest Springs for Sunniva, who paid in 66 trade tokens and a long story about the rumour of a second well. A dispute over the comet flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 3 of everything, except the clockwork bird, which is always short. Wendeline came by asking about the quarantine. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 246, summer of year 36

Rumours about the new curfew reached the Salt Flats. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. The weather turned. Nadira moved the ledger indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta. Nadira found a cracked compass half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached the Salt Flats. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 247, summer of year 36

Nadira found a bundle of letters half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone. The weather turned. Nadira moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 248, summer of year 36

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira was hired to carry a coil of rope from Wayrest Springs to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded. The weather turned. Nadira moved the clockwork bird indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet.

Entry 249, summer of year 37

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 6 of everything, except the hand bell, which is always short. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the quarantine. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 250, winter of year 37

Nadira was hired to carry a spool of wire from the Salt Flats to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real clockwork bird from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 251, spring of year 37

Benedikt came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over the right way to mend a net flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira was hired to carry a ledger from Three Crows junction to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 86 of everything, except the hand bell, which is always short.

Entry 252, summer of year 37

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 253, winter of year 38

Yusuf came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Nadira was hired to carry a iron kettle from the Cracked Cistern to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Zora came by asking about the missing shipment. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a sextant on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 254, summer of year 38

Quentin came by asking about the singing at the docks. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Soren came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira was hired to carry a coil of rope from Wayrest Springs to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 255, summer of year 38

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 51 of everything, except the hand bell, which is always short. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real hand bell from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a sack of salt on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 256, summer of year 38

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira found a brass lantern half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone. Rurik came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 257, autumn of year 38

At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real clockwork bird from a fake one by weight alone. Nikolai came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real sack of salt from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 258, autumn of year 38

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 78 of everything, except the brass lantern, which is always short. Nadira found a coil of rope half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 259, autumn of year 38

Nadira found a bolt of linen half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone. The weather turned. Nadira moved the bolt of linen indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors.

Entry 260, summer of year 38

Rumours about the old tunnels reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Rumours about the old tunnels reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 261, summer of year 39

The weather turned. Nadira moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. Nadira was hired to carry a cracked compass from Wayrest Springs to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Dashiell came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 262, autumn of year 39

Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira was hired to carry a sextant from Wayrest Springs to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 263, winter of year 39

Nadira won 86 trade tokens on a bet about the tax on doors and spent all of it on supper. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 264, summer of year 39

Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached the Salt Flats. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira found a iron kettle half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Nadira moved the cracked compass indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors.

Entry 265, spring of year 40

Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. Nadira repaired the coil of rope at Three Crows junction for Halcyon, who paid in 9 trade tokens and a long story about the new curfew. At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real tin whistle from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 266, autumn of year 40

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Nadira moved the signal flag indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the rumour of a second well. Wren came by asking about the census. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 267, spring of year 40

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Nadira moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the price of lamp oil. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 268, winter of year 40

Nadira repaired the tin whistle at Emberfall Pass for Magnus, who paid in 18 trade tokens and a long story about the comet. The weather turned. Nadira moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the price of lamp oil. Nadira repaired the glass float at Emberfall Pass for Octavia, who paid in 31 trade tokens and a long story about the new curfew. Xavier came by asking about the census. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 269, spring of year 40

Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira repaired the coil of rope at Three Crows junction for Rosalind, who paid in 25 trade tokens and a long story about the comet. Fitzgerald came by asking about the missing shipment. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Sixten came by asking about the singing at the docks. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira was hired to carry a bundle of letters from Three Crows junction to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 270, autumn of year 40

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 50 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira found a hand bell half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the old tunnels. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 271, summer of year 40

Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. Ulla came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 272, summer of year 40

At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real hand bell from a fake one by weight alone. Ravi came by asking about the old tunnels. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 273, winter of year 40

Nadira won 56 trade tokens on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on supper. A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira was hired to carry a hand bell from the Cracked Cistern to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Petra came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 274, winter of year 40

Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 77 of everything, except the wax seal, which is always short. Nadira repaired the clockwork bird at Three Crows junction for Qadira, who paid in 4 trade tokens and a long story about the quarantine. At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real copper pipe from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 275, spring of year 40

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tax on doors. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira was hired to carry a bolt of linen from Wayrest Springs to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 276, winter of year 40

Rumours about who really won the regatta reached the Salt Flats. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira was hired to carry a glass float from the Salt Flats to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira found a brass lantern half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 277, winter of year 40

Rumours about the singing at the docks reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about the singing at the docks reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 44 of everything, except the iron kettle, which is always short. Rumours about the old tunnels reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 278, spring of year 40

Nadira was hired to carry a cracked compass from Wayrest Springs to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the old tunnels. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the old tunnels. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 279, winter of year 40

Nadira found a oilskin map half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira repaired the sack of salt at Wayrest Springs for Yusuf, who paid in 6 trade tokens and a long story about the census. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a spool of wire on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 280, spring of year 40

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 25 of everything, except the hand bell, which is always short. The weather turned. Nadira moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the missing shipment. The weather turned. Nadira moved the oilskin map indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net.

Entry 281, spring of year 40

Nadira found a sextant half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira repaired the glass float at the Cracked Cistern for Quillon, who paid in 14 trade tokens and a long story about the comet. Nadira found a oilskin map half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. Nadira repaired the oilskin map at the Cracked Cistern for Marisol, who paid in 55 trade tokens and a long story about the old tunnels.

Entry 282, summer of year 40

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira was hired to carry a wax seal from the Salt Flats to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira won 72 trade tokens on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Ursula came by asking about the tariff on salt. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 283, winter of year 40

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 58 of everything, except the iron kettle, which is always short. A dispute over the comet flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone. Osric came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 284, summer of year 40

Someone left a spool of wire on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira was hired to carry a tin whistle from Wayrest Springs to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. The weather turned. Nadira moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira won 62 trade tokens on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 285, spring of year 41

Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 29 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short. Nadira won 42 trade tokens on a bet about the tax on doors and spent all of it on supper. The weather turned. Nadira moved the bolt of linen indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the missing shipment. Nadira repaired the hand bell at the Cracked Cistern for Soren, who paid in 66 trade tokens and a long story about the new curfew.

Entry 286, winter of year 41

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. Nadira found a wax seal half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 287, spring of year 41

Nadira found a oilskin map half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 61 of everything, except the iron kettle, which is always short. Nadira found a sack of salt half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the census. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 288, spring of year 41

A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Gideon came by asking about the comet. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira was hired to carry a tin whistle from the Salt Flats to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Valentin came by asking about the tariff on salt. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 289, spring of year 42

Someone left a spool of wire on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira won 17 trade tokens on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on supper. A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Nadira moved the coil of rope indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about whether the bridge will hold.

Entry 290, spring of year 42

Ravi came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira repaired the spool of wire at the Cracked Cistern for Mara, who paid in 59 trade tokens and a long story about the price of lamp oil. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 53 of everything, except the bolt of linen, which is always short.

Entry 291, winter of year 42

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 6 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short. Nadira repaired the glass float at the Cracked Cistern for Lysander, who paid in 57 trade tokens and a long story about the price of lamp oil.

Entry 292, autumn of year 42

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the quarantine. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Nadira moved the bolt of linen indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. Greta came by asking about who really won the regatta. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira won 25 trade tokens on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 293, summer of year 43

Rumours about who really won the regatta reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira was hired to carry a spool of wire from the Cracked Cistern to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira was hired to carry a bolt of linen from the Cracked Cistern to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 294, summer of year 43

A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira found a sextant half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 295, winter of year 43

Rumours about the census reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira was hired to carry a bundle of letters from the Cracked Cistern to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 296, autumn of year 43

Nadira repaired the clockwork bird at Three Crows junction for Kestrel, who paid in 21 trade tokens and a long story about the missing shipment. Nadira repaired the sextant at Three Crows junction for Emeric, who paid in 83 trade tokens and a long story about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 42 of everything, except the grain scale, which is always short.

Entry 297, spring of year 44

A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Nadira moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 60 of everything, except the coil of rope, which is always short. The weather turned. Nadira moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine.

Entry 298, spring of year 44

The weather turned. Nadira moved the glass float indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the missing shipment. Nadira was hired to carry a iron kettle from Emberfall Pass to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira won 70 trade tokens on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on supper. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 299, spring of year 44

Nadira was hired to carry a grain scale from Wayrest Springs to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 64 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 300, autumn of year 44

Nadira was hired to carry a oilskin map from the Cracked Cistern to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira was hired to carry a copper pipe from the Cracked Cistern to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 301, winter of year 44

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Nadira moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the price of lamp oil. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 302, autumn of year 44

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira found a coil of rope half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Nadira moved the bundle of letters indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tariff on salt.

Entry 303, summer of year 44

Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 52 of everything, except the bundle of letters, which is always short. Nadira repaired the coil of rope at the Salt Flats for Osric, who paid in 83 trade tokens and a long story about the tax on doors. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real pair of spectacles from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira found a brass lantern half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 304, winter of year 44

A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira found a spool of wire half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira found a iron kettle half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 305, autumn of year 45

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 306, spring of year 45

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the comet for an hour and parted better friends than before. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Nikolai came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 307, summer of year 45

Nadira found a pair of spectacles half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Rumours about the tax on doors reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 308, spring of year 45

Nadira found a bundle of letters half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Soren came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real coil of rope from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 309, winter of year 46

Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 77 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short. Nadira found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira repaired the iron kettle at the Salt Flats for Pilar, who paid in 47 trade tokens and a long story about the singing at the docks. Nadira found a sextant half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 13 of everything, except the glass float, which is always short.

Entry 310, summer of year 46

At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira was hired to carry a cracked compass from Emberfall Pass to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Yannick came by asking about the census. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 311, winter of year 46

Nadira was hired to carry a coil of rope from Emberfall Pass to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Rumours about the missing shipment reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira repaired the coil of rope at Emberfall Pass for Zubair, who paid in 72 trade tokens and a long story about the quarantine. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 312, winter of year 46

A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira repaired the sack of salt at Three Crows junction for Hamish, who paid in 72 trade tokens and a long story about the comet. At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 313, autumn of year 46

Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Nadira repaired the bolt of linen at Emberfall Pass for Osric, who paid in 42 trade tokens and a long story about the tariff on salt. Nadira won 51 trade tokens on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 314, spring of year 46

Nadira found a ledger half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Nadira moved the ledger indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira repaired the tin whistle at the Salt Flats for Thaddeus, who paid in 41 trade tokens and a long story about the missing shipment. The weather turned. Nadira moved the bundle of letters indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine.

Entry 315, summer of year 46

A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira won 2 trade tokens on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 316, winter of year 46

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the comet for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over the census flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira was hired to carry a cracked compass from Three Crows junction to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 317, winter of year 47

Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the singing at the docks for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 318, autumn of year 47

At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real tin whistle from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 22 of everything, except the glass float, which is always short. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 52 of everything, except the bolt of linen, which is always short. Nadira found a wax seal half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 319, winter of year 47

Nadira repaired the ledger at the Cracked Cistern for Ingrid, who paid in 48 trade tokens and a long story about who really won the regatta. Someone left a tin whistle on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira repaired the iron kettle at the Cracked Cistern for Tiberius, who paid in 3 trade tokens and a long story about the price of lamp oil. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 320, spring of year 47

Marisol came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Thaddeus came by asking about the old tunnels. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 321, winter of year 47

Nadira was hired to carry a sextant from Emberfall Pass to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A dispute over the comet flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 322, winter of year 47

Nadira won 80 trade tokens on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a ledger on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira found a wax seal half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 323, spring of year 47

Nadira repaired the hand bell at the Cracked Cistern for Hamish, who paid in 40 trade tokens and a long story about the comet. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira won 36 trade tokens on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on supper. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 14 of everything, except the signal flag, which is always short. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 324, autumn of year 47

The weather turned. Nadira moved the bundle of letters indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the old tunnels. Someone left a tin whistle on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. The weather turned. Nadira moved the bolt of linen indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira found a glass float half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira found a coil of rope half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 325, winter of year 48

Someone left a sextant on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Rumours about the missing shipment reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 326, spring of year 48

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira found a bolt of linen half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 327, autumn of year 48

Nadira found a spool of wire half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 54 of everything, except the coil of rope, which is always short. The weather turned. Nadira moved the ledger indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors.

Entry 328, winter of year 48

Nadira was hired to carry a ledger from Three Crows junction to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira found a pair of spectacles half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 329, winter of year 48

At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real pair of spectacles from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 89 of everything, except the clockwork bird, which is always short. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real copper pipe from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira found a grain scale half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 330, autumn of year 48

A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached the Salt Flats. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira was hired to carry a wax seal from the Salt Flats to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 331, autumn of year 48

At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real copper pipe from a fake one by weight alone. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the harvest count. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the comet. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 332, spring of year 48

Nadira won 2 trade tokens on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on supper. The weather turned. Nadira moved the cracked compass indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census. Someone left a ledger on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real copper pipe from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 333, summer of year 48

Nadira was hired to carry a oilskin map from Emberfall Pass to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 14 of everything, except the signal flag, which is always short. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the harvest count. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 334, autumn of year 48

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. Soren came by asking about who really won the regatta. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira repaired the bolt of linen at Wayrest Springs for Wilhelmina, who paid in 7 trade tokens and a long story about the tax on doors. Rumours about the new curfew reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 335, spring of year 48

Nadira repaired the signal flag at the Cracked Cistern for Rhoswen, who paid in 2 trade tokens and a long story about the census. Nadira found a iron kettle half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 336, winter of year 48

A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 337, winter of year 48

At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira won 55 trade tokens on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. Someone left a sextant on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Nadira found a coil of rope half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 338, autumn of year 48

Rumours about the quarantine reached the Salt Flats. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached the Salt Flats. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 339, summer of year 48

Rumours about the old tunnels reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Umberto came by asking about who really won the regatta. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Nadira moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census. Nadira found a signal flag half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira won 23 trade tokens on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 340, winter of year 48

The weather turned. Nadira moved the sextant indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real clockwork bird from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 341, winter of year 49

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the harvest count. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Nadira moved the tin whistle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the rumour of a second well. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 342, summer of year 49

Nadira was hired to carry a sextant from Emberfall Pass to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about the census reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 343, spring of year 49

Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira found a bolt of linen half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 344, winter of year 49

Anouk came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 345, winter of year 50

Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 10 of everything, except the bundle of letters, which is always short. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira was hired to carry a copper pipe from the Cracked Cistern to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira repaired the wax seal at the Cracked Cistern for Pilar, who paid in 64 trade tokens and a long story about the price of lamp oil.

Entry 346, spring of year 50

The weather turned. Nadira moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the harvest count. The weather turned. Nadira moved the bolt of linen indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the missing shipment. Nadira was hired to carry a wax seal from the Cracked Cistern to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 347, autumn of year 50

Emeric came by asking about the missing shipment. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Rowan came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real clockwork bird from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 348, autumn of year 50

Rumours about the tax on doors reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Matthias came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 349, winter of year 50

Rurik came by asking about the singing at the docks. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a coil of rope on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Rumours about the harvest count reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 350, spring of year 50

At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira repaired the grain scale at the Cracked Cistern for Marisol, who paid in 66 trade tokens and a long story about the harvest count. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira was hired to carry a tin whistle from the Cracked Cistern to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 351, autumn of year 50

Nadira won 39 trade tokens on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper. Nadira repaired the bundle of letters at Three Crows junction for Juniper, who paid in 63 trade tokens and a long story about the census. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 352, spring of year 50

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira repaired the bundle of letters at Three Crows junction for Teodora, who paid in 38 trade tokens and a long story about the missing shipment. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 353, spring of year 51

Nadira was hired to carry a iron kettle from Three Crows junction to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Gustav came by asking about the tax on doors. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Rumours about the tax on doors reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 354, winter of year 51

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the quarantine. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira was hired to carry a sack of salt from Wayrest Springs to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Soren came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 355, summer of year 51

Ravi came by asking about the old tunnels. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a bundle of letters on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 356, spring of year 51

The weather turned. Nadira moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tariff on salt. Zeph came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira repaired the pair of spectacles at Emberfall Pass for Isadora, who paid in 27 trade tokens and a long story about the quarantine. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 357, autumn of year 51

Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira was hired to carry a ledger from Emberfall Pass to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Isadora came by asking about the census. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira repaired the iron kettle at Emberfall Pass for Kestrel, who paid in 80 trade tokens and a long story about the harvest count.

Entry 358, spring of year 51

At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real sextant from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 54 of everything, except the oilskin map, which is always short. Nadira was hired to carry a spool of wire from the Cracked Cistern to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 359, winter of year 51

Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 72 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. The weather turned. Nadira moved the sextant indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 360, spring of year 51

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 10 of everything, except the brass lantern, which is always short. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira was hired to carry a sextant from Three Crows junction to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 361, autumn of year 52

Lucienne came by asking about the census. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Baptiste came by asking about the census. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 57 of everything, except the grain scale, which is always short.

Entry 362, spring of year 52

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 363, spring of year 52

Nadira was hired to carry a clockwork bird from Three Crows junction to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira was hired to carry a brass lantern from Three Crows junction to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 364, winter of year 52

A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Emberfall Pass; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira found a grain scale half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 365, winter of year 52

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 13 of everything, except the brass lantern, which is always short. Nadira won 85 trade tokens on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper. Nadira repaired the brass lantern at Emberfall Pass for Viggo, who paid in 55 trade tokens and a long story about the old tunnels. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 366, summer of year 52

The weather turned. Nadira moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the quarantine. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 43 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short. The weather turned. Nadira moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the old tunnels. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tax on doors. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Nadira moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tariff on salt.

Entry 367, spring of year 52

Nadira found a hand bell half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira found a tin whistle half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 24 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 70 of everything, except the bundle of letters, which is always short. A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 368, spring of year 52

Nadira closed early, walked to the Salt Flats, and watched the lights come on. A dispute over the right way to mend a net flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 68 of everything, except the bolt of linen, which is always short. Magnus came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 369, spring of year 52

Nadira repaired the iron kettle at the Salt Flats for Umberto, who paid in 14 trade tokens and a long story about the comet. Isadora came by asking about the comet. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira won 54 trade tokens on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper. Nadira found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 370, summer of year 52

The weather turned. Nadira moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real tin whistle from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 371, winter of year 52

Nadira found a oilskin map half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Rowan came by asking about who really won the regatta. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 372, summer of year 52

The weather turned. Nadira moved the bundle of letters indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the price of lamp oil. Someone left a clockwork bird on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira was hired to carry a wax seal from Wayrest Springs to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 373, winter of year 53

Xavier came by asking about the comet. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real hand bell from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 16 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a tin whistle on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 374, spring of year 53

Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. Someone left a sextant on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. Nadira won 16 trade tokens on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper. Nadira was hired to carry a tin whistle from the Salt Flats to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 375, winter of year 53

Nadira was hired to carry a bundle of letters from Wayrest Springs to the Salt Flats without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 45 of everything, except the oilskin map, which is always short. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Nadira moved the sextant indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks. Nadira won 62 trade tokens on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 376, spring of year 53

A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Three Crows junction; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Nadira moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the price of lamp oil for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 377, winter of year 53

At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the old tunnels reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. The weather turned. Nadira moved the bundle of letters indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the harvest count. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the harvest count. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 378, spring of year 53

Nadira won 58 trade tokens on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper. The weather turned. Nadira moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 63 of everything, except the glass float, which is always short. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 379, spring of year 53

Nadira was hired to carry a oilskin map from Three Crows junction to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Rumours about the missing shipment reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira won 47 trade tokens on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper. Nadira was hired to carry a wax seal from Three Crows junction to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 380, winter of year 53

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. At Emberfall Pass, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 381, summer of year 53

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira repaired the sack of salt at Emberfall Pass for Juniper, who paid in 23 trade tokens and a long story about whether the bridge will hold. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Nadira won 3 trade tokens on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper. Phaedra came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 382, winter of year 53

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira repaired the cracked compass at Three Crows junction for Kestrel, who paid in 87 trade tokens and a long story about the harvest count. Nadira won 36 trade tokens on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on supper. Nadira found a signal flag half-buried near Three Crows junction and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 383, autumn of year 53

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before. Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the Cracked Cistern. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira found a wax seal half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 59 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short.

Entry 384, winter of year 53

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 53 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. Nikolai came by asking about the census. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Pilar came by asking about the comet. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 385, spring of year 53

Nadira was hired to carry a copper pipe from the Cracked Cistern to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira was hired to carry a wax seal from the Cracked Cistern to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Ysolde came by asking about the singing at the docks. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira found a tin whistle half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 386, spring of year 53

Nadira repaired the sack of salt at the Salt Flats for Dashiell, who paid in 8 trade tokens and a long story about the singing at the docks. Ingrid came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira found a brass lantern half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 387, autumn of year 53

Nadira was hired to carry a grain scale from Wayrest Springs to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Someone left a brass lantern on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the new curfew reached Wayrest Springs. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real tin whistle from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 388, winter of year 53

The weather turned. Nadira moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tariff on salt. At Three Crows junction, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real pair of spectacles from a fake one by weight alone. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira repaired the clockwork bird at Three Crows junction for Teodora, who paid in 57 trade tokens and a long story about the tariff on salt.

Entry 389, winter of year 53

Kwame came by asking about who really won the regatta. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira found a glass float half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 390, summer of year 53

Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Someone left a oilskin map on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira repaired the grain scale at the Salt Flats for Torvald, who paid in 90 trade tokens and a long story about the old tunnels.

Entry 391, autumn of year 53

Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Halcyon came by asking about the old tunnels. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Rumours about the harvest count reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira repaired the grain scale at Three Crows junction for Zeph, who paid in 58 trade tokens and a long story about the right way to mend a net. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 392, summer of year 53

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira repaired the wax seal at Wayrest Springs for Umberto, who paid in 24

trade tokens and a long story about who really won the regatta. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. The weather turned. Nadira moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors.

Entry 393, summer of year 54

Nadira was hired to carry a bolt of linen from the Salt Flats to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira repaired the bundle of letters at the Salt Flats for Tomasz, who paid in 6 trade tokens and a long story about the new curfew. Nadira found a coil of rope half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 394, spring of year 54

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 395, winter of year 54

A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 61 of everything, except the signal flag, which is always short. Nadira found a oilskin map half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Yannick came by asking about the comet. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 396, spring of year 54

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. The weather turned. Nadira moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the singing at the docks. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 77 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short.

Entry 397, summer of year 55

Rumours about the quarantine reached Three Crows junction. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a cracked compass on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira was hired to carry a iron kettle from Three Crows junction to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 88 of everything, except the sack of salt, which is always short.

Entry 398, autumn of year 55

Nadira won 34 trade tokens on a bet about the tax on doors and spent all of it on supper. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 20 of everything, except the bundle of letters, which is always short. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Three Crows junction: 40 of everything, except the sextant, which is always short. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 399, winter of year 55

A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira repaired the spool of wire at Wayrest Springs for Caspian, who paid in 12 trade tokens and a long story about the price of lamp oil. Nadira won 34 trade tokens on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. Someone left a sextant on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira repaired the cracked compass at Wayrest Springs for Gideon, who paid in 47 trade tokens and a long story about the tariff on salt.

Entry 400, summer of year 55

At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Cracked Cistern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 401, spring of year 55

Nadira won 82 trade tokens on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on supper. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 78 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short. Nadira found a coil of rope half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira was hired to carry a bolt of linen from Emberfall Pass to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Nadira found a bundle of letters half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 402, summer of year 55

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the comet. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Nadira moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the comet. Rumours about the comet reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira won 86 trade tokens on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on supper. Nadira was hired to carry a bundle of letters from Emberfall Pass to Wayrest Springs without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 403, autumn of year 55

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira repaired the tin whistle at Emberfall Pass for Lysander, who paid in 40 trade tokens and a long story about the comet. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the price of lamp oil for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 404, autumn of year 55

At the Cracked Cistern, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a sextant on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 69 of everything, except the coil of rope, which is always short.

Entry 405, summer of year 56

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Nadira moved the wax seal indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew. Nadira was hired to carry a clockwork bird from Emberfall Pass to the Cracked Cistern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 406, spring of year 56

Nadira won 49 trade tokens on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on supper. Nadira closed early, walked to Wayrest Springs, and watched the lights come on. Nadira repaired the sextant at Three Crows junction for Wendeline, who paid in 38 trade tokens and a long story about whether the bridge will hold.

Entry 407, summer of year 56

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before. Sable came by asking about the old tunnels. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 408, summer of year 56

Someone left a sack of salt on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. Hamish came by asking about the quarantine. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 409, summer of year 57

Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a iron kettle on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 410, winter of year 57

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira won 82 trade tokens on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. The weather turned. Nadira moved the sextant indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about whether the bridge will hold.

Entry 411, winter of year 57

Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira won 63 trade tokens on a bet about the tax on doors and spent all of it on supper. Someone left a iron kettle on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira repaired the bundle of letters at the Salt Flats for Soren, who paid in 7 trade tokens and a long story about the census. At the Salt Flats, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 412, autumn of year 57

The weather turned. Nadira moved the bundle of letters indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. Rumours about the tax on doors reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Nadira found a grain scale half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a oilskin map on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 413, autumn of year 57

Leocadia came by asking about the tax on doors. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. Nadira was hired to carry a sack of salt from Wayrest Springs to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 414, spring of year 57

Nadira found a spool of wire half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Delphine came by asking about the comet. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside Wayrest Springs; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 415, spring of year 57

Nadira repaired the iron kettle at the Salt Flats for Cassius, who paid in 54 trade tokens and a long story about the comet. Someone left a tin whistle on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the missing shipment. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 416, winter of year 57

Ulla came by asking about the census. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. Nadira repaired the signal flag at Wayrest Springs for Dorothea, who paid in 71 trade tokens and a long story about the tariff on salt.

Entry 417, autumn of year 57

Nadira closed early, walked to Three Crows junction, and watched the lights come on. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Nadira moved the brass lantern indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the harvest count.

Entry 418, spring of year 57

A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira spent the day counting stock at Wayrest Springs: 76 of everything, except the bundle of letters, which is always short. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira found a bolt of linen half-buried near Wayrest Springs and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 419, winter of year 57

At Wayrest Springs, Nadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real clockwork bird from a fake one by weight alone. Nadira won 45 trade tokens on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on supper. The weather turned. Nadira moved the oilskin map indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about whether the bridge will hold. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 420, winter of year 57

Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached Emberfall Pass. Nadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. Kenji came by asking about the tariff on salt. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Nadira moved the hand bell indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the price of lamp oil. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 421, summer of year 58

The weather turned. Nadira moved the coil of rope indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tariff on salt. Nadira won 36 trade tokens on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on supper. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Nadira repaired the hand bell at the Cracked Cistern for Qadira, who paid in 49 trade tokens and a long story about who really won the regatta. Magnus came by asking about the comet. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 422, autumn of year 58

Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Salt Flats: 66 of everything, except the iron kettle, which is always short. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira was hired to carry a glass float from the Salt Flats to Three Crows junction without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Ignatius came by asking about the old tunnels. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 423, autumn of year 58

Nadira spent the day counting stock at Emberfall Pass: 59 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. Nadira closed early, walked to the Cracked Cistern, and watched the lights come on. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right. Nadira found a brass lantern half-buried near Emberfall Pass and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Nadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 424, summer of year 58

Nadira was hired to carry a hand bell from the Cracked Cistern to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Rosalind came by asking about the harvest count. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira repaired the bundle of letters at the Cracked Cistern for Amadou, who paid in 24 trade tokens and a long story about the old tunnels. the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 425, summer of year 58

A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Nadira and a neighbour outside the Salt Flats; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nadira found a sextant half-buried near the Salt Flats and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A stranger asked Nadira for the password to the workshop. Nadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 426, winter of year 58

Halcyon came by asking about the census. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Nadira moved the coil of rope indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 427, summer of year 58

Nadira found a tin whistle half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Nadira found a ledger half-buried near the Cracked Cistern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the comet for an hour and parted better friends than before. Calloway came by asking about who really won the regatta. Nadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Nadira spent the day counting stock at the Cracked Cistern: 79 of everything, except the clockwork bird, which is always short.

Entry 428, autumn of year 58

the Caravaners' Compact sent a notice about the census. Nadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Nadira closed early, walked to Emberfall Pass, and watched the lights come on. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the singing at the docks for an hour and parted better friends than before. Nadira was hired to carry a hand bell from Wayrest Springs to Emberfall Pass without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

