

Qadira Jessop

Character Dossier

Restless and curious blacksmith of Lumen Falls, a small mountain town in 1987

Overview

Qadira Jessop is a blacksmith living in Lumen Falls, a small mountain town in 1987. Qadira is 73 years old, originally from Fennick, and is known around the Falls Diner as restless and curious. In conversation Qadira compliments people before disagreeing with them.

Background

Qadira arrived in Lumen Falls, a small mountain town in 1987 25 years ago after leaving Fennick under circumstances Qadira describes differently every time. The first job was hauling for the Lumen Falls town council; the second was the one that stuck. Today Qadira works as a blacksmith near Route 12 gas station and is paid, when paid at all, in dollars.

Qadira learned the trade from Jorah Okonkwo, who still drops by unannounced. The longest-running feud in Qadira's life is with Nadira Merriwether, over a matter neither will explain. The person Qadira trusts most is Jorah Okonkwo.

Current goal: to be forgotten by the people who remember the fire. Greatest fear: crowds that go quiet all at once.

Personality and speech

Temperament: restless and curious.

Speech pattern: Qadira compliments people before disagreeing with them.

Tells: when lying, Qadira mentions Comet the pigeon for no reason.

Verified facts

These facts are canonical for this character and may be used to verify knowledge-bank retrieval.

Full name	Qadira Jessop
Role	blacksmith
Home	Lumen Falls, a small mountain town in 1987
Hometown	Fennick
Age	73
Favourite dish	twice-cooked fig and walnut bread
Pet	Comet, a pigeon

Lucky number	813
Workshop password	thistle-moss
Mentor	Jorah Okonkwo
Rival	Nadira Merriwether
Closest friend	Jorah Okonkwo

Secret

Qadira writes poetry under the pen name 'The Thistle' and has a small, devoted readership.

Sample dialogue

Visitor: What do you do here?

Qadira: I am the blacksmith. Has been that way longer than you have been asking questions.

Visitor: What is your favourite thing to eat?

Qadira: Twice-cooked fig and walnut bread. Do not tell Nadira I said so.

Visitor: Is Comet yours?

Qadira: Comet belongs to nobody. Comet tolerates me. Lucky number is 813, if you were about to ask.

Chronicle

Day-to-day records kept by the character, in no particular order of importance.

Entry 1, spring of year 3

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the old tunnels. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the missing shipment. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 2, spring of year 3

A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Qadira spent the day counting stock at the shuttered paper mill: 34 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the quarantine. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 3, spring of year 3

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. At Pinecrest High, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 4, summer of year 3

Someone left a clockwork bird on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. Qadira was hired to carry a tin whistle from Pinecrest High to the shuttered paper mill without opening it, and mostly succeeded. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right.

Entry 5, winter of year 3

Qadira repaired the bolt of linen at the shuttered paper mill for Emeric, who paid in 56 dollars and a long story about who really won the regatta. Bram came by asking about the harvest count. Qadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Qadira closed early, walked to Route 12 gas station, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 6, summer of year 3

Qadira repaired the sextant at the Falls Diner for Noor, who paid in 38 dollars and a long story about the harvest count. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Qadira was hired to carry a tin whistle from the Falls Diner to the shuttered paper mill without opening it, and mostly succeeded. At the Falls Diner, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 7, summer of year 3

The weather turned. Qadira moved the spool of wire indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. The weather turned. Qadira moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tax on doors. Qadira was hired to carry a sack of salt from Route 12 gas station to the Falls Diner without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Qadira repaired the spool of wire at Route 12 gas station for Rhoswen, who paid in 24 dollars and a long story about the harvest count. Qadira spent the day counting stock at Route 12 gas station: 30 of everything, except the bolt of linen, which is always short.

Entry 8, autumn of year 3

Rumours about the comet reached Route 12 gas station. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Qadira was hired to carry a bundle of letters from Route 12 gas station to Pinecrest High without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the right way to mend a net flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside Route 12 gas station; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At Route 12 gas station, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real tin whistle from a fake one by weight alone. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 9, summer of year 3

Rumours about the tax on doors reached the Falls Diner. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Qadira spent the day counting stock at the Falls Diner: 42 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short. At the Falls Diner, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the missing shipment reached the Falls Diner. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 10, summer of year 3

Qadira found a brass lantern half-buried near the community radio shack and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Qadira moved the copper pipe indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew. Qadira found a sextant half-buried near the community radio shack and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 11, summer of year 3

Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the Falls Diner. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside the Falls Diner; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Qadira found a glass float half-buried near the Falls Diner and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 12, spring of year 3

At Pinecrest High, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real hand bell from a fake one by weight alone. Qadira repaired the clockwork bird at Pinecrest High for Yevgenia, who paid in 64 dollars and a long story about the new curfew. Thaddeus came by asking about the old tunnels. Qadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. Pilar came by asking about who really won the regatta. Qadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 13, autumn of year 4

Qadira repaired the pair of spectacles at Route 12 gas station for Rowan, who paid in 71 dollars and a long story about the missing shipment. A dispute over the right way to mend a net flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside Route 12 gas station; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Qadira closed early, walked to the community radio shack, and watched the lights come on. Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. Qadira repaired the iron kettle at Route 12 gas station for Zora, who paid in 5 dollars and a long story about the tariff on salt.

Entry 14, winter of year 4

Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. At the community radio shack, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. Qadira found a pair of spectacles half-buried near the community radio shack and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 15, summer of year 4

Qadira repaired the bundle of letters at the shuttered paper mill for Xavier, who paid in 66 dollars and a long story about whether the bridge will hold. Qadira won 71 dollars on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. Qadira repaired the wax seal at the shuttered paper mill for Astrid, who paid in 10 dollars and a long story about the singing at the docks. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 16, spring of year 4

Qadira found a glass float half-buried near Route 12 gas station and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At Route 12 gas station, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real sack of salt from a fake one by weight alone. Qadira won 15 dollars on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 17, summer of year 4

the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside the shuttered paper mill; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Someone left a sextant on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 18, winter of year 4

Qadira spent the day counting stock at the shuttered paper mill: 85 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short. Qadira found a glass float half-buried near the shuttered paper mill and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Astrid came by asking about the singing at the docks. Qadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. The weather turned. Qadira moved the cracked compass indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the tariff on salt.

Entry 19, autumn of year 4

The weather turned. Qadira moved the spool of wire indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the rumour of a second well. Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached the shuttered paper mill. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Qadira won 52 dollars on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 20, summer of year 4

Qadira closed early, walked to Pinecrest High, and watched the lights come on. Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. At the Falls Diner, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real sack of salt from a fake one by weight alone. A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside the Falls Diner; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Qadira was hired to carry a oilskin map from the Falls Diner to Pinecrest High without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 21, summer of year 4

Qadira spent the day counting stock at Route 12 gas station: 40 of everything, except the iron kettle, which is always short. The weather turned. Qadira moved the iron kettle indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about who really won the regatta. Qadira spent the day counting stock at Route 12 gas station: 9 of everything, except the brass lantern, which is always short. Qadira spent the day counting stock at Route 12 gas station: 26 of everything, except the signal flag, which is always short.

Entry 22, autumn of year 4

Qadira was hired to carry a brass lantern from Pinecrest High to the community radio shack without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. Qadira found a copper pipe half-buried near Pinecrest High and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 23, spring of year 4

Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the shuttered paper mill. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about the new curfew reached the shuttered paper mill. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Qadira repaired the bolt of linen at the shuttered paper mill for Wilhelmina, who paid in 9 dollars and a long story about the quarantine. Qadira spent the day counting stock at the shuttered paper mill: 50 of everything, except the copper pipe, which is always short.

Entry 24, spring of year 4

At the Falls Diner, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real glass float from a fake one by weight alone. At the Falls Diner, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real clockwork bird from a fake one by weight alone. Qadira repaired the bolt of linen at the Falls Diner for Ursula, who paid in 35 dollars and a long story about the quarantine.

Entry 25, summer of year 5

Qadira repaired the copper pipe at the Falls Diner for Octavia, who paid in 89 dollars and a long story about the comet. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the census. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Qadira was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the Falls Diner to Pinecrest High without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 26, winter of year 5

the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the comet. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Qadira closed early, walked to the Falls Diner, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 27, summer of year 5

Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. Rurik came by asking about the tariff on salt. Qadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Rumours about the harvest count reached Route 12 gas station. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 28, winter of year 5

Qadira closed early, walked to Pinecrest High, and watched the lights come on. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside the Falls Diner; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about the tax on doors reached the Falls Diner. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Yevgenia came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Qadira said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 29, spring of year 5

Qadira repaired the brass lantern at the shuttered paper mill for Hollis, who paid in 22 dollars and a long story about who really won the regatta. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. Qadira was hired to carry a coil of rope from the shuttered paper mill to Pinecrest High without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 30, winter of year 5

A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside the community radio shack; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At the community radio shack, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real sextant from a fake one by weight alone. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Qadira found a cracked compass half-buried near the community radio shack and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 31, winter of year 5

the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Rumours about the quarantine reached Pinecrest High. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 32, spring of year 5

Rumours about the tariff on salt reached the Falls Diner. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the Falls Diner. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 33, winter of year 6

A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside the Falls Diner; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. Qadira found a wax seal half-buried near the Falls Diner and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 34, summer of year 6

A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Qadira found a coil of rope half-buried near the community radio shack and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Qadira won 12 dollars on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper. Qadira spent the day counting stock at the community radio shack: 75 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short.

Entry 35, winter of year 6

Juniper came by asking about the singing at the docks. Qadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside Route 12 gas station; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 36, winter of year 6

At Route 12 gas station, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real ledger from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 37, spring of year 7

Qadira was hired to carry a brass lantern from the shuttered paper mill to the community radio shack without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the comet flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside the shuttered paper mill; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Qadira closed early, walked to the community radio shack, and watched the lights come on. Qadira closed early, walked to the community radio shack, and watched the lights come on. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 38, summer of year 7

Rumours about the tariff on salt reached Route 12 gas station. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached Route 12 gas station. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached Route 12 gas station. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 39, autumn of year 7

the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. At Pinecrest High, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone. Qadira closed early, walked to the Falls Diner, and watched the lights come on. Rumours about whether the bridge will hold reached Pinecrest High. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 40, autumn of year 7

Qadira won 68 dollars on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on supper. Qadira won 45 dollars on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on supper. Qadira spent the day counting stock at the shuttered paper mill: 61 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short. A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside the shuttered paper mill; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Qadira found a glass float half-buried near the shuttered paper mill and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 41, spring of year 8

Qadira won 39 dollars on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on supper. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. Cassius came by asking about the new curfew. Qadira said nothing useful and made tea instead. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the quarantine. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 42, autumn of year 8

Qadira closed early, walked to Pinecrest High, and watched the lights come on. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside the shuttered paper mill; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Qadira won 65 dollars on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper. Rumours about the singing at the docks reached the shuttered paper mill. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 43, summer of year 8

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Qadira moved the pair of spectacles indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census.

Entry 44, winter of year 8

Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached Route 12 gas station. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. At Route 12 gas station, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 45, winter of year 8

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. Someone left a bundle of letters on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. Qadira won 77 dollars on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on supper. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 46, autumn of year 8

A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Qadira was hired to carry a bundle of letters from Pinecrest High to the shuttered paper mill without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Qadira found a coil of rope half-buried near Pinecrest High and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Rumours about the tax on doors reached Pinecrest High. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 47, summer of year 8

Qadira closed early, walked to the Falls Diner, and watched the lights come on. Rumours about the tax on doors reached Route 12 gas station. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At Route 12 gas station, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real sack of salt from a fake one by weight alone. Qadira won 37 dollars on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on supper.

Entry 48, winter of year 8

Qadira closed early, walked to Route 12 gas station, and watched the lights come on. Qadira found a copper pipe half-buried near the Falls Diner and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Qadira repaired the sack of salt at the Falls Diner for Valentin, who paid in 71 dollars and a long story about the new curfew.

Entry 49, summer of year 9

Qadira closed early, walked to Route 12 gas station, and watched the lights come on. The weather turned. Qadira moved the bundle of letters indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the new curfew. Qadira spent the day counting stock at the shuttered paper mill: 34 of everything, except the grain scale, which is always short. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 50, summer of year 9

Qadira found a sack of salt half-buried near the community radio shack and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Qadira repaired the spool of wire at the community radio shack for Zeph, who paid in 78 dollars and a long story about the right way to mend a net. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the tax on doors. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached the community radio shack. Qadira pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside the community radio shack; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 51, winter of year 9

Qadira spent the day counting stock at the community radio shack: 51 of everything, except the coil of rope, which is always short. The weather turned. Qadira moved the grain scale indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the right way to mend a net. Qadira spent the day counting stock at the community radio shack: 85 of everything, except the copper pipe, which is always short. Qadira was hired to carry a grain scale from the community radio shack to the shuttered paper mill without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Qadira was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from the community radio shack to the shuttered paper mill without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 52, spring of year 9

Qadira was hired to carry a coil of rope from the shuttered paper mill to the Falls Diner without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Qadira for the password to the workshop. Qadira laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Qadira moved the glass float indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the rumour of a second well.

Entry 53, summer of year 9

Qadira repaired the brass lantern at the Falls Diner for Kenji, who paid in 28 dollars and a long story about the tax on doors. Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. At the Falls Diner, Qadira taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. Qadira spent the day counting stock at the Falls Diner: 50 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the new curfew. Qadira read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 54, spring of year 9

Qadira spent the day counting stock at the Falls Diner: 37 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short. Qadira closed early, walked to Pinecrest High, and watched the lights come on. Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Qadira has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Qadira and a neighbour outside the Falls Diner; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.